Fire Damage In Millions

FLAMES RAGE IN FORESTS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—(UP)—Additional forest fire fighting crews were mobilized today from British Columbia to Southern California as more than 600 fires swept Pacific coast forests causing millions of dollars damage, and endangering lives and a score of towns.

Several of the larger fires and a number of small ones were attributed to incendiaries by forest officials.

6000 Battle
While nearly 6000 men were on the fire lines in the three Pacific coast states and one Canadian province, and hundreds more were being summoned to protect endangered property, authorities pointed out that at last five fires had been set by individuals to create employment.

In such emergencies many fire fighters are recruited from the ranks of unemployed in metropolitan centers.

Soaring temperatures, low humidity, dry lightning and a prolonged rainless period had brought one of the most serious fire problems ever known in the far west. Forests were tinder dry and virtually the entire Pacific coast sweltered under a blazing sun.

Situation Serious
A serious situation existed at Campbellton, B. C., where a raging fire was advancing on the settlement. Two destroyers stood by ready to evacuate residents by sea or lead crews to help the 1000 men already fighting the flames.

A Comox logging company camp was evacuated and all equipment, including 120 freight cars, were moved from the path of another fire in the province.

The front of the Campbellton fire was eight miles long and smoke clouds stood up more than 7000 feet. Thirty million feet of piled logs were directly in the path of the fire, which already has caused damage estimated at more than $200,000. Elk River and Courtney were reported in danger.

In California fires raged unchecked through brush, cutover and valuable forests of virgin timber, with no indication that rain would fall to help check the flames.

Airplanes Used
The most serious California fires were in the Klamath and Trinity national forests. In this area 11 separate conflagrations burned out of control. The U. S. forest service carried men to the scene in airplanes, which also dropped food and supplies to crews already in isolated sectors.

The forestry service reported California suffered most, with 350 fires within its borders. Two had burned in the Tahoe forest and along Mad river.

A thousand men fought a fire on the Smith River in Oregon which had burned over more than 7000 acres. Driven by a stiff wind the flames roared through the woodlands, driving the fighters back.

Near Rydewood, Wash., a fire had swept over more than 12,000 acres. Hundreds of men fought vainly to hold it back with fire lines, but they fought in the face of high winds and low humidity.

CIO Marches "Back Home"

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 21.—(UP)—District Highway Patrol Inspector Paul Maxim of Lassen county reported from Chester today he is permitting an automobile caravan of 300 Committee for Industrial Organization "refugees" from Westwood to return to the little lumber town in units of two and three cars at a time.

Chester is approximately 20 miles from Westwood.

300 Return
The augmented caravan, said by Maxim to number more than 60 cars, is comprised of 300 C.I.O. lumber and sawmill workers and their families driven last week from Westwood in a C.I.O. "purge."

JAPANESE BLOCKED IN HANKOW 'PUSH'

SHANGHAI, July 21.—(UP)—Chinese military authorities asserted today that their troops had opened a successful counter attack south of Hankow, driving the Japanese from strategic positions near Pengtsch.

The counter-attack was started, it was asserted, despite increasing pressure on the Chinese lines from reinforced Japanese and daily bombings of the entire military district as far up the Yangtze river as Hankow, 160 miles away.

Block "Big Push"
While Japanese authorities censored reports of their Yangtze operations, Chinese reports indicated that a Japanese "big push" up the river had started several days ago but claimed it had been repulsed.

From Swatow, on the southeast coast, came reports of a huge celebration to mark Chinese re-occupation of the island of Namoa, off the coast, which the Japanese took last month. A Japanese spokesman denied that the Chinese had retaken the island. In Hankow, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek sent congratulations to the troops which retook the island.

ORDER GOVERNMENT OFFICES MOVED
HANKOW, July 21.—(UP)—All civil administrative offices not directly connected with the military service were ordered today to move to Szechwan, substitute provisional capital up the Yangtze river in Szechwan province.

Embassies Also Move
The order, including the foreign office, means that the foreign embassies also will move to Chungking. A United States embassy spokesman said Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson would go to Chungking shortly.

A Chinese foreign office spokesman said the early removal was prompted by the slow progress of civilian evacuation of Hankow in view of the Japanese advance, and that it was believed merchants and others would leave more quickly if the civil offices were moved. However, he insisted that the removal was not connected with any change in the military situation.

Tax On Federal Salaries Okehd
WASHINGTON, July 21.—(UP)—The justice department in a formal opinion today advised the treasury that legislation providing reciprocal federal and state taxation of government salaries and securities is constitutional.

In an opinion written by Assistant Attorney General James W. Morris in charge of the tax division, the department said that such legislation, recommended by President Roosevelt in a special message to congress last session, would come within the purview of the 16th amendment which authorizes Congress to tax income "from whatever source."

Radio "Kiss" Corrigan To Sail Home

DUBLIN, July 21.—(UP)—Douglas Gorge Corrigan, hero of a "wrong direction" fight from New York to Ireland, booked a passage home today aboard the United States Liner Manhattan, sailing from Queenstown on July 30.

The Manhattan will arrive on August 5 in New York where Corrigan will be welcomed in the manner reserved for heroes.

It was assumed that Corrigan would take along his antiquated $300 airplane, in which he has so much pride that he said "She's good enough to fly around the world."

Having Good Time
Corrigan was reluctant to end his "party" because he was having a good time and there were a lot of things he said he would like to see

VICTIM OF TRAFFIC ACCIDENT PASSES

Mrs. Minnie Agnew, 60, of 518 East Second street, died yesterday at 7:10 p. m. in Santa Ana Valley hospital as the result of injuries received Saturday night, July 2, while walking across North Main street between 11th and 12th streets.

Her death is the 34th in Orange county traffic this year as compared with 51 traffic deaths at the same time last year.

Mrs. Agnew, whose body was removed to Brown and Wagner Colonial funeral chapel where an inquest will be conducted at 10 a. m. tomorrow, was walking with a companion, E. E. Hardy, also of 518 East Second street, when the accident occurred. A car driven by E. F. Borchard, 40, of 422 East Chestnut, struck them down but Borchard was not held.

Mrs. Agnew suffered broken leg, fractured pelvis and internal injuries while Hardy received a dislocated shoulder injury, cuts and bruises. Funeral arrangements are being made today.

Two Cremated In Truck-Car Crash

MADERA, Cal., July 21.—(UP)—The bodies of two San Francisco men, cremated when their automobile crashed with a truck load of sheep and burst into flames last night, were to be sent to San Francisco today for burial.

The victims, I. Schwartz, 55, manager of the Varne Drug and Chemical Company, and Leonard Taylor, 23, were burned almost beyond recognition. They were identified by a Madera druggist.

BATTLING WEISMULLERS PLAN 3RD TREK TO DIVORCE COURT

BY FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
HOLLYWOOD, July 21.—(UP)—Lupe Velez, who has tossed many a dainty haymaker in the direction of her husband's chin—and ducked many a piece of furniture in return—had her third divorce suit on file today against her John-ee.

Twice before, the battling John-ee Weismullers have trekked to the divorce court from the wreckage of their Beverly Hills mansion, only to kiss and make up, but this time Lupe insisted she never would return to the man she used to call her love-lee brute.

"Jealous—Heartless"
Miss Velez, the only blonde Mexican in these parts—she used to be brunette—charged John-ee with being morose, sullen and cruel. She said he was so jealous he didn't even want her to go to the beauty parlor to get her hair touched up, so thoughtless that he forgot to come home to dinner even when

LAGUNA PROJECT RESTORED TO ACTIVE STATUS BY PWA CHIEF

Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes today restored to active status a Laguna Beach water works application, one of eight west coast projects suspended pending investigation of alleged lobby activities of Glenn E. Miller.

Ickes said the California South Coast County Water District advised him it refused Miller's services and no money was paid or contract entered into with him.

Continues Inquiry
Ickes said the investigation was being continued of the seven remaining projects under suspension since his order directed at Miller's alleged lobbying for California communities seeking PWA funds.

Ickes said he has received a telegram from Mayor Harry H. Williamson of Newport Beach, stating that the city employed Miller in 1936 without knowledge it was violating PWA regulations.

Studies Case
Williamson asked whether the city's present standing with PWA has been jeopardized. His inquiry is under advisement.

In addition to the $185,635 South Laguna project, for which a $33,535 grant was asked, Ickes last week suspended the following California developments: Orange County storm sewer, Santa Monica city hall, Oxnard harbor, San Gabriel sewer, Fallbrook irrigation and Riverside distal plant projects.

Rosendahl Hit By Sec. Ickes

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(UP)—Secretary of Interior Harold I. Ickes today accused Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, naval dirigible expert, of inconsistency in recommending that the United States sell helium supplies to Germany.

Ickes said he has not revised his position in opposing the request of Germany for sufficient supplies of the non-inflammable gas to inflate the Reich's new dirigible which is being built.

Ickes blocked efforts of Dr. Hugo Eckener earlier this year to procure an export license for the gas. Rosendahl, on returning recently from Germany, said he saw no military significance in helium exports to Germany—the issue on which Ickes blocked the export license.

Original Tarzan Named In Suit
HOLLYWOOD, July 21.—(UP)—Otto E. Linkenhelt, who, as Elmo Lincoln, played the original screen role as "Tarzan," today denied he had beat his wife or threatened her life, as she alleged in her divorce complaint.

In his answer to his wife's divorce action, Linkenhelt's statement that he had refused W.P.A. work, he had in fact sought employment on the federal theater project. He said he was able and willing to work for his wife and two-year-old daughter.

Man's Bite Saves Cow From Quicksand Death

SAN DIEGO, July 21.—(UP)—Andy Gonzales, San Jacinto, made news today—made it by an age-old, world-accepted standard.

Andy bit, not a dog but a cow, and thereby rescued the animal known as Flossie.

Where seven men, a horse, a block-and-tackle and yards and yards of heavy rope had failed, Andy's bite, administered on Flossie's tender tail, succeeded.

The animal, deeply mired in the San Diego river's quicksands, had defied all efforts to dislodge her for more than an hour when Andy put in an appearance and volunteered help.

Once bitten Flossie, quickly and convulsively, shook herself free from the engulfing sand and fled to safety.

"It's the best system I know," Andy said modestly when it was all over and Flossie's tail had been bandaged.

Lee Tracy Becomes Husband

HOLLYWOOD, July 21.—(UP)—Lee Tracy, the machine gun talking film actor, and his bride, the former Helen Thomas Wyse of San Francisco, will leave for the east and London on their honeymoon tonight.

A forced landing in an airplane added an extra thrill to their wedding yesterday. Motor trouble brought the ship down at Brawley, Calif., while the party was flying to Yuma, Ariz. They made the rest of the trip in an automobile sent by George Cutshaw, the former Brooklyn Dodgers baseball player.

At Yuma they were united by a Presbyterian ceremony at the home of the Rev. Raymond C. Acheson. Afterwards, the usually fast quipping actor had only this to say: "Boy, am I happy!"

Tracy gave his age as 40 and his birthplace as Georgia. It is his first marriage. His bride, a divorcee, said she is 26.

Shark Gets Away From Roosevelt
ABOARD THE U. S. S. HOUSTON, Enroute to Cocos Isle, July 21.—(By Naval Radio to the United Press)—President Roosevelt might have had plenty to say today about the shark that broke his line and got away, but his fishing luck wasn't all bad. He caught a 30 pound blue jack in the waters off Socorro Island, the largest of 130 fish caught by the six fishermen in the party. He lost the shark after a half hour struggle.

The fishing was the best of any since the cruise began. Mr. Roosevelt was somewhat reluctant to leave for Clipperton Island, a French possession 670 miles from the coast of Mexico and on a direct line between Panama and Hawaii.

The President, after a short exchange of official dispatches with government officials in Washington, resumed his fishing.

Registration Deadline Near
SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 21.—(UP)—The largest primary election registration in California's history was almost a certainty today as county clerks prepared to close their books at midnight tonight.

Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan estimated the registration would top 3,200,000 voters and far exceed the previous primary record in 1936 of 2,096,823. Jordan arrived at his computation by adding known registration to the June total of 3,028,709.

The greatest registration on record was 3,253,821 for the Roosevelt-Landon presidential battle in 1936. Democrats will outnumber Republicans almost two to one this year. The June 6 tabulation gave Democrats 1,746,496 and Republicans 1,134,754. This Democratic margin of 611,742 votes was in contrast to the 584,473 advantage of the 1936 primary.

Gwynne's Selections

- 1—Lady Painter, Stormwarning, Gold Lace.
- 2—Sweet Nancy, Betty War, Min-tourl.
- 3—High Grenade, Scapose, Byrd-ford.

- 6—Silvery Cloud, Don Guzman, Sun Portland.
- 7—Noble Count, Gray Jack, Real Clear.
- 8—Sweet Mystery, Hassan, Tem-pet.
- Best Bet—Silvery Cloud.

Registration clerks, working under high pressure during recent days to handle the registration of voters for the August primary, today were going at a feverish pace in County Clerk Basil J. Smith's office as the registration period approached its close. Clerk Smith will close the registration books tonight, in conformity with the law that terminates registration 40 days in advance of an election.

Instead of observing the customary 5 o'clock closing hour, Smith will hold his office open this evening to accommodate belated voters who wish to qualify for the election.

The total registration of the county probably will not be known for several days, Smith said today, or until full reports have been received from registration deputies in the field. Smith expects the total to reach about 68,000.

CZECH MINORITY PROBLEM NEARS SOLUTION

NEW SITUATION SEEN AT PARLEY

PARIS, July 21.—(UP)—A solution of the minority problem in Czechoslovakia, which has plagued Europe and threatened general peace, is imminent, it was indicated today by Georges Bonnet, foreign minister.

Bonnet announced that after consultation with Stefan Osusky, Czechoslovak minister to Paris, a situation has been evolved favorable to Czechoslovakia.

Seek United Stand
The state visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain gave statements of France and Britain an opportunity to confer on European political problems and seek a united British-French stand to solve them.

Returning from Versailles, where King George had lunch after witnessing a display of France's military might in review, Bonnet said he had been in conference all day with Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary.

Solution Near

He gave optimistic reassurance that a Czech solution was near. His optimism was immediately attributed to a decision of the two powers to put pressure on President Edouard Benes of Czechoslovakia to discontinue his resistance to negotiating the minority problem with the Sudeten Germans.

Bonnet told the press: "At the conclusion of yesterday's conversations with Lord Halifax we had a renewed comforting feeling of the most complete harmony."

Situation Bright

"Things moved favorably for Czechoslovakia today and the situation is very bright. I saw M. Osusky this morning and his report from Prague was most reassuring."

The British sovereigns are pleased with the demonstration of profound French popular sentiment and insisted on publication before their departure from Paris of their invitation to President Benes to return a state visit to London.

Deforestation—By Fire

Erupting an 800-foot high plume of smoke, seen glowering over the hills in the photo above, a destructive forest fire burned a large area of the Hood Canal district of Washington, near Puget Sound. Over 5000 acres of slashings and green trees are estimated to have been destroyed. Farm houses and summer homes are endangered and roads blocked. Stiff breezes and hot, dry weather made the task of scores of fire-fighters difficult.

BILLY THE KID, MAN OR GHOST?

RATON, N. M., (UP)—A group of frontiersmen, headed by Maj. Gordon W. (Pawnee Bill) Little of Pawnee, Okla., has started tracking down recurrent reports that Billy the Kid, New Mexico's notorious outlaw before the turn of the century, is still alive.

Billy the Kid, whose six-guns made history in the grim Lincoln county war, was trapped and killed by Sheriff Pat Garrett in 1881—according to all historical accounts, which have been questioned repeatedly.

Plan 'Big Pow-Wow'
The group left here for Albuquerque. The frontiersmen planned to question Eliego Baca, territorial gunman and peace officer of the old cattle days.

Eddie Botsford of Littlefield, Tex., the Rev. J. W. E. Alcey of Houston, and B. F. Barbart of Taos, N. M., accompanied Maj. Little on the trip. All are members of the National Frontiersmen's Association. This association is seeking to verify reports the Kid escaped into Mexico instead of falling under Sheriff Garrett's guns.

MAN GAMBLER WITH LIFE, IS ARRESTED

William Gamble, 34-year-old Hollywood resident, was gambling with his life along the railroad tracks at Placentia, sheriff's officers who arrested him on a drunk charge last night, testified.

The investigation was started at request of one of freight train engineers who reported that some drunk men, each night during the past several days, at 11:30, have been loitering and staggering about the tracks and he feared they might jump or fall in front of his engine and be killed.

The men were said to have been camping along the railroad right-of-way on Placentia-Richfield boulevard at the Jefferson street crossing. According to Deputy Sheriff's Extra Stanley and A. W. Anderson, Gamble admitted he had been intoxicated and drunk on the tracks last night. The engineer reported the men had apparently tried to board the moving train upon one occasion. None but Gamble could be found.

HUGHES AND GLOBE-GIRDLING CREW VISIT SECRETARY HULL

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(UP)—Howard Hughes and his globe-girdling crew came to Washington by plane today to thank Secretary of State Cordell Hull for co-operation of his department in the round the world flight.

More than 2000 persons gathered at Washington airport to greet Hughes and his companions when they alighted from a commercial transport which had been placed at the disposal of his party.

Arrive Late
The plane arrived almost an hour later than scheduled because of delay in taking off from Newark airport.

Hughes, who was on schedule on virtually every stop in his globe-girdling flight, failed to appear at the airport on time. Hughes would not smile for the photographers despite pleadings that he "give us a smile and wave your hand." He kept his eyes averted.

Besides Hughes, the party included Lieut. Thomas Thurlow, navigation expert, and his wife; Harry Conner, navigation officer, and his wife; Richard Stoddard, radio engineer, and his wife; Ed Lund, mechanic; Al Lodwick, Hughes' personal representative, and his wife; Commander Howard Flannagan; W. ## Thieves In Auto Take $28 In Oil

Sheriff's officers today were hunting for the thief who stole 45 gallons of oil valued at $28.25, and four oil containers, from the tractor shed of O. Otte, resident one-fourth mile west of Los Alamitos boulevard on Bryant road recently.

The thief entered the shed through an open door, rolled an oil drum containing 40 gallons of oil 150 yards to the highway, loaded it on his car, took a five-gallon can of oil and two empty cans in addition, then left. Otte told officers he saw a man backing an automobile down the highway about the time of the theft but thought nothing of it at the time. Investigation revealed the thief probably backed the car to alley suspicion. Wheel marks show a car was backed 100 yards down the highway before it was turned around.

Girton Cleared Of Accusation

Due to lack of evidence, a charge of vagrancy filed against Ralph Girton, 39, Santa Ana painter, was dismissed today by City Judge J. G. Mitchell at request of City Atty. Lew Blodgett, representing the prosecution.

Girton was accused in a complaint signed by S. R. Hauck, 623 South Base, who alleged Girton was the man he saw window-peeping at the Hauck place last week. Hauck claimed he had a good look at the man before the man escaped.

However, Girton and his wife claimed Girton was at home in bed at the time Hauck reported seeing Girton. Girton had pleaded not guilty and demanded jury trial but the case was dismissed before coming to trial.

PROWLER GETS AWAY

A "peeping Tom" who was seen prowling about last night in the neighborhood of the Artie Martin home, Route 1, Buena Park, was sought unsuccessfully by Deputy Sheriff's Extra Stanley and A. W. Anderson. Mrs. Martin said she walked onto the back porch about 9:30 and saw the man looking through a window of her home; he fled. At midnight, the man was seen at the window again, she reported. He is described as a short man with white shirt and black trousers.

Horse Strays On Lerno Farm

Some buckaroo must be missing his horse today, Emil Lerno, Bolso-Chico road, Westminster, thinks. He told Deputy Sheriff Grace Hall he has, at the present time, 900 pounds of straw-roan "on hand" at his place and doesn't know what to do about it. "I don't know the owner or where the horse came from," Lerno reported. "He isn't mine and I'm anxious to have him taken home." The animal is described as a saddle horse bearing two brands, "H. E." and "R. E." He is blind in one eye, Lerno said.

Thieves Taking Barn, Windmill

H. Y. Evans Jr., believes he has a legitimate complaint today if ever they were a complaint. "Out on the ranch two miles south of Bolsa opposite the hog farm, someone during recent weeks has been systematically carrying off my barn and windmill in piecemeal fashion," he told sheriff's officers yesterday. Last night deputies made repeated checks at the place but no thief appeared at the scene. Further checks will be made.

COUNTY GETS $9315 OF PWA

Orange county was among the 22 California and Arizona governmental groups to receive an allotment of public works administration funds, PWA Director Kenneth A. Goodwin announced yesterday in a communication to M. N. Thompson, county flood control engineer.

The amount allocated to the county is $9,315.50 to be used as financial aid in the construction of a storm drain in East Richfield.

Must Have Approval

Entire cost of the project which PWA officials agreed to pay 45 per cent, is $20,702. The allocation must have Presidential approval before it can be sent here, Thompson said, and as soon as such approval is given and the money sent, the work will be started.

Director Goodwin stated the 22 projects to which money was allotted involved a total cost of $2,091,093, PWA furnishing $949,265. The Presidential approval, it was indicated, is merely a routine action.

Skips Junk Heap—Lands In Ireland

In this ancient monoplane Douglas P. Corrigan, navigator extraordinary, flew from New York to Dublin, Ireland—without radio, without navigating instruments, without permission of the U. S. government, without permission of the airport from which he cleared and without a lot of fanfare. The nine-year-old 1900 Curtiss Robin plane, powered by a single 175 horsepower motor, made the crossing in about 28 hours. Aviation experts said few fliers would venture over any long stretch of ocean in such a ship.

FORCE AND DIVERSION

Bobbie is sitting on his play rug, pounding the couch with a chair rail that he has managed to find somewhere. With each thump he blinks his eyes and shrieks. There are two ways for his mother to get him to stop. She can shout, "Bobbie, you stop that this minute! Give me that stick. Where did you ever get such a thing? Give it to me, I tell you. Give it to me or I'll slap your hands to make you let go. . . . All right. I can't help it. You asked for it. Next time I tell you to give me something you give it to me or you'll be smacked again. You're a very bad little boy."

Or she can say, "Pussy, pussy, where is that little cat? She was here a moment ago? I want to give her a bit of cookie, and some milk, too. Come pussy, pussy. O, here she is. Nice pussy. Come and get a cookie and a little milk."

By this time the blows on the couch will have about ceased, the round eyes following mother and pussy, toward the kitchen. As they disappear through the doorway the stick rolls away and the little chap gets up and hurries as well as he can after them calling, "I wanna give pussy cookie. I wanna cookie, too. Let me give pussy some cookie."

Mother gives each a nibble of cookie, a sip or two of milk; manages to whisk off the offending stick, lay a big ball in its place all ready for the game. When Bobbie comes back he has about forgotten the stick; the ball attracts him, and the play goes on.

Force is not good in the rearing and training of little children. They do not understand why the things they do are wrong in themselves. All they know about it is that a strong giant of a person fell upon them and smote them when they were having a very happy time. The memory will make them fear the descent of that grown person, make them rebel against his force, make him dislike any suggestion of obedience from that direction. Diversion is better than force.

I know that it is not always possible to divert the child who is in mischief, or in danger. But there are many times when it is possible, and these ought to be utilized to the full. That will make the times when force is necessary very rare. The emergency is to be met when they appear, not before.

Try to make good behavior natural, or to seem natural. A good teacher is always a good actor. The child is on one plane of growth and the adult on another. In order to meet the child on the level of his understanding the teacher and parent must assume that level, or assume the right approach to it. This demands imagination and action that call upon what power of acting one possesses.

Keep this one point in mind in dealing with little children. We desire to train them to habitual goodness, habitual understanding of their relationships to people and things. We do not want to teach them fear of any sort. Force sets fear. One of the ways to avoid setting it in little children is by diverting them from the wrong course. It is not as hard as all this talk about it would make it appear. Just change the subject for him and go on from there.

FIRST INFESTED FRUIT CASE OF SEASON BRINGS ARREST

SACRAMENTO, July 21.—First attempt of the season by a motorist to smuggle infested fruit into California was reported today to the bureau of plant quarantine, state department of agriculture, by Senior Border Plant Quarantine Inspector E. A. Breech of the Redwood highway inspection station at Crescent City.

Inspection of the car driven by protesting that he had brought no John Lyon of Kaw, Oklahoma, replants or plant products with him sulted in the arrest of the driver from Oregon, Lyon admitted that and his conviction of violation of two half-gallon jars filled with fresh cherries were his property. The cherries were found by Inspector Gardner secreted on a large box filled with clothing.

Admits Mistake

Taken before Justice of the Peace Crawford in Crescent City, Lyon pleaded guilty and admitted he had made a mistake in trying to bring in the fruit. Judge Crawford informed Lyon that the reason fresh cherries were forbidden entry was because certain areas of neighboring states had cherry fruit fly infestations and that the insect might be introduced into California if fresh cherry shipments were not prohibited except where proper treatment had been given. If established in California, the fly could cause serious losses to the state's important cherry industry.

Inasmuch as Lyon was enroute to his old Oklahoma home, Justice of the Peace Crawford inflicted only a small fine but suggested that if he should attempt to enter California again that he resolve to observe all the laws, and particularly those passed to protect California's agricultural industry from insect pests and plant diseases.

GARDEN AND HOME

Through the Garden Gate

WITH MARAH ADAMS

How to build a conservatory at a comparatively small cost has been solved efficiently by Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Hilton, 1903 North Main street. Many persons passing by the Hilton home have admired the ingenuity and attractiveness shown in the construction of this glass house.

Utilizing the north side of the house as one of the walls, the Hiltons have completed an unusual as well as a beautiful unit to their home. The conservatory is built in the form of a lean-to with a slope of glass roof from the side of the home to the outer wall of the conservatory. The building was completed in November.

The work on the greenhouse was done by the owners after a cement foundation had been laid. Although finished but a short time ago, the Hiltons already have established in the conservatory a number of rare plants. A big tree fern fills one corner.

The outside wall and ends of the greenhouse are half brick and half glass. The bricks came from the old Santa Ana high school. A window in the dining room was made into a door and this door leads on to a small red brick platform with a short flight of steps down to the floor of the conservatory. The bricks have been painted a particularly good looking shade of red which harmonizing with the big square red tiles of the floor.

The building is 20 feet long and 10 feet wide. In time it will be filled with ferns. A plant or two at a time is added to the collection. The owner kept no exact record of the construction cost. Materials were purchased from time to time as they were needed.

The conservatory well might be called a "house of gifts" as several of the rare plants were gifts to Mrs. Hilton, on Christmas, at Easter, on Mother's Day and other occasions. One of these plants is a Stephanotis, a climber with small white blossoms, 11 to a cluster and a delicate fragrance quite unlike anything else.

A row of "red hot poker" blossoms on an adjoining lot and just outside the window, makes a bright and scarlet contrast to the green within.

The glass on the roof is painted white. Here is a tip from the Hiltons on painting glass for greenhouse purposes which they received from a commercial grower. In painting glass which is to be exposed to the sun, use benzine in mixing the white lead and the paint will not crack or scale off as when the usual mixtures are employed.

On the main street end of the greenhouse the coat of arms of Mr. Hilton's family made into a colored glass panel, is inset in the plain glass. Mr. Hilton's ancestors, the Hepburns, came to America from England with the earliest settlers of Virginia and the coat of arms is one the family has carried since the 11th century. Mrs. Hilton's family also may be traced to this early date in England.

Dr. and Mrs. Roy S. Horton who live at 315 Cypress avenue, have transformed almost their entire back yard into an out of door living room. At one time the yard held only a rose arbor with cement floor. The floor was left and the arbor removed when the Hortons decided to build an out of door fireplace and grill.

The fireplace built of rock, was placed on the south side of what had been the arbor and a lath house built around it. In time two things were discovered, first that the room was too small, and second that the laths did not keep out enough cold to make the spot comfortable for evening out of door meals.

At present the room is spacious, with walls made of strips of wood placed both vertically and horizontally leaving air spaces in small squares. An annex has been added by means of a canvas canopy at one end. The canvas is hung so that it may be let down forming a wall at the open end of the room.

At one time when the two boys of the family were little chaps, a small swimming pool was built back yard. This pool has been made into a rock garden. What was formerly a miniature cactus garden has been made into an attractive bird bath. The rock garden forms the background for the annex.

A row of lilies of the Nile are in full bloom on the north side of the yard. The yard is so arranged as to present a sense of completeness and comfort.

Mrs. H. M. Baldrige, 924 North Olive street, has a night blooming cereus which was grown from a cutting from the famous hedge of this plant near Honolulu. While Mrs. Baldrige was on a motor

Paraphernalia Blossoms

No, she hasn't draped odds and ends from the tool kit that belongs in the family car in fantastic array on her skirt. Nor has she been kneeling on a rubber beach pillow that somehow got sticky and stuck to her knees when she got up. She's just wearing one of the latest apron creations for women who do a gardening job. Of printed cotton, it is equipped with straps for pruning shears and other garden paraphernalia, a kneeling pad and huge pockets. Notice the kerchief, tied peasant-fashion about her head. This summer, kerchiefs are worn by smart women the world over for afternoon and evening as well as for active sports and gardening.

Care Assured Island Trees

Two hundred trees planted the past year on Balboa Island by Mrs. Helen Marriot will be cared for during the summer by students of the Balboa Island Swimming and Diving school under the direction of Allan (Sunny) Walker, according to plans made by the group at a camp fire meeting Tuesday evening.

Senator Harry Westover, speaking for Island residents, expressed an appreciation of the young people's activities. He used Joyce Kilmer's well known poem, "Trees," in concluding his informal talk. Herbert Johnson, club president, introduced Mr. Walker who in turn introduced Senator Westover.

GARDEN OVERSEER RETIRES AT 84

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 21.—Miss Louise Klein Miller at 84 has retired as supervisor of Cleveland's Memorial Gardens to start on a new career. She is moving to a farm south of here to attempt the development of new botanical specimens. Miss Miller planned the Memorial Gardens in 1910 and since has supervised them. They were laid out in memory of the 173 children who died in the Collinwood school fire, one of the nation's major tragedies.

Miss Miller was the first woman to attend Cornell University's school of forestry.

She formerly was supervisor of nature studies in the Detroit schools, then taught in Groton's Lowthorpe school of horticulture. In 1904 she came to Cleveland to lecture and remained to start gardens in the vicinity of several schools.

NEWPORT BEACH, July 20.—Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Lane of Court avenue accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John Teague and Mrs. Della Heaton of Long Beach have returned after a vacation spent at Robin Hood Lodge near Lake Elsinore. They were guests in the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rogers of Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Thompson and family of Eagle Rock, are to move August 1 to 229 36th street for a two months stay.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Simpson and children of Phoenix, Ariz., are at 1920 Court avenue for a two months stay.

SUGGEST DRY ICE TO SPUR GROWTH

"Dry ice" has become a common expression where 20 years ago it was unknown. It is solid carbon dioxide, the gas that is used in carbonating beverages. A most interesting new angle to its usefulness is given by Dr. Frank E. E. Germann in a recent issue of Science. He points out first of all the tremendous quantity of carbon dioxide gas in the earth and its frequent release in enormous amounts from wells. In Mexico there are oil wells which are producing 150,000,000 cubic feet of carbon dioxide a day, which is the equivalent of 900,000 tons of dry ice.

In the second place the natural advantages of dry ice in refrigeration for service, in shipping flowers, in shipping and storing many fruits and vegetables, and in holding ice cream and dairy products, are being better appreciated each day. Finally, there is the possibility of increasing the growth and productivity of plants in the greenhouse, and even out-of-doors by increasing the amount of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere. He says "our vast reserves of carbon dioxide should be put to work in increasing crop production. Some day we shall no doubt wonder why it took so long for us to awaken to this important use of a natural resource which had been permitted to go to waste."

CLOSE BOTANIC GARDENS FOR NINE MONTHS

Following an openhouse season during the past three months, during which time hundreds of visitors, botanists and scientists visited the Santa Ana botanic gardens on the famous Bixby-Evans rancho in Santa Ana canyon, the public will be excluded for the next nine months.

During the coming months, the large staff of scientists employed by the foundation, provided for the gardens as a memorial to the late John W. Bixby, will be engaged in the development of new plant life and the planting of specimens brought in from all parts of the world by the field crew employed for this purpose.

Many Specimens There More than 100,000 specimens of plant life of California and their related plants from other countries are growing on the 200-acre section of the rancho set aside for this purpose, and new California specimens are being added constantly. Many of these specimens are exceedingly rare, some almost extinct.

The field crews, searching the mountains, deserts and coasts of California, occasionally find some strange specimen of plant life and it is brought to the large and well-equipped laboratory on the rancho, where it is carefully studied and catalogued. Most extensive library of plants, their history and relationship is maintained by the foundation with technical pictures being used in illustrative work. Even motion picture films are made and catalogued in the library.

When the gardens are opened to visitors next April, one of the new treats will be a mammoth fernery, this portion of the garden to include hundreds of rare specimens.

In another section of the tract is plant life of the tropics, growing in more or less swamp foundations and under as close a natural environment as is possible to provide.

Other parts of the rancho are in keeping with the highly developed scientific botanical gardens. Many fine specimens of California trees are found and the citrus development of the rancho embraces all fruits of that family. The grove of naval oranges on the Bixby rancho, one of the finest in the world, is located in a well-protected canyon and produces an early variety of fruit noted for exceptional size and sweetness.

Much development is contemplated by the large staff of botanists and workmen during the next few months and they will create many new additions to a remarkable show place.

Gasoline Gardenias—Bananas

Gasoline and gardenias! A combination of this sort seems unusual indeed. Yet, in this exact combination they will be found at a service station at the corner of Orange avenue and First street where the owners, William Long and Merle Guttie have gone in for raising gardenias in a big way, having planted 12 big bushes in a row around the back of their lot. Some of the plants have had as many as 20 blossoms at a time.

Just across the street on the corner of First and Spurgeon streets, Station Brothers who operate another gasoline station, have decided that the things to have growing on service station grounds are banana trees.

Two big bunches of bananas hang ripening from one of the trees, a third bunch having been taken one dark night by some vandals. Tourists like to look at banana trees, says one of the brothers. Any number of travelers from the east and middle west stand under the trees and take each other's pictures, they state. Tourists come to California to see orange, lemon and banana trees, the proprietors say, and they aim to please.

Being sound advice and interesting comment on what to plant and how to care for Orange county gardens.

The Oriental Poppy

One of the most gorgeous flowers of which any early summer garden can boast is the oriental poppy. The combination of deep green, beautifully cut foliage growing in a luxuriant clump and huge satiny petalled flowers on long, firm stems, is a sight to rejoice the gardener's eye and heart.

Oriental poppies are thrifty plants, lasting many years, and usually multiplying. A rich, light, loamy soil they like best, though they will grow in almost any type of soil, provided they have good drainage. And, of course, poppies are for the sunshine.

They bloom in late spring and early summer, and after blooming they have a dormant period, during which they may be divided and moved, August and September are the months for this, and if set then, the plants should grow sturdily on and bloom the following spring.

Papaver orientale, the species of the oriental poppy, is native to the Mediterranean region. It is scarlet with a black blotch at the base of the petals. Some of the many hybrids of this poppy show the black spot; others are without it.

Many Varieties Like so many of our garden flowers the oriental poppy fanciers offer around 300 varieties nowadays. There are splendid colors which burn and flame and glow against the garden's greenness. There are delicious pastels, and there are whites. And the blooming period also has been lengthened, a very acceptable improvement, since all poppies have a short season of bloom. By careful selection one may have six to eight weeks of oriental poppies flowering.

The scarlet varieties are so brilliant they should be grown amidst lavish green and against a green background. Mandarin is a splendid scarlet, without the black spot; Manchurian Fan is unusual; Royal Scarlet has giant flowers. All the scarlet tones are beautiful when combined with white flowers—white shrubs, or our familiar Shasta daisy. Mahoney has blooms of intense dark crimson-maroon, and there are other varieties bringing the maroons, oxblood and raspberry shades.

At the other end of the color range are the whites. Perry's White was the first, and is still fine, but its white is somewhat creamy and it has a maroon blotch at the petal base. Barr's White is more truly white.

There are lilac and old rose shades, Masterpiece and Enchantress being especially fine; and even some called yellow, and bearing such familiar names as Prince of Orange and Ophir Gold.

But probably the most popular of the orientals are the pinkish shades, all the way through flesh, coral, peach, shrimp, geranium pink, salmon rose, cerise. They combine beautifully in the garden with all the blue flowers, iris, delphinium, anemone, Canterbury bells and other campanulas, also with lilies, columbines, forget-me-nots, coral bells. One called Dawn has immense long-stemmed blooms of a charming flesh color; Princess Victoria has large flowers and exquisite coloring, a clear and luminous salmon-pink with a glistening sheen; Mrs. Perry has magnificent blooms, with silky crinkled petals of glistening salmon-rose.

Since these poppies cover a generous space, when they die away there is a considerable bareness in the spot where once they flourished. This should be borne in mind and beside them or back of them should be placed plants which will happily spread over the vacant space where the poppies have glowed and gleamed in beauty.

If one is forced to plant seed in order to secure the oriental poppies, seed should be sown in the spring, preferably where the plants are to grow. The little seedlings will go dormant by mid-summer, when they may be safely moved if they have been planted in a seed box. Once established, the plants grow and increase in size over a number of years, and add a gorgeous sweep of color in the early summer garden.

All the poppies are charming things. The splendid orientals which we mention today because it is about time for their dividing and planting; the Iceland poppies, which while perennial, flower the first year from seed, and are exquisitely dainty with their bright green, fern-like foliage and delightful flowers; the big double annual poppies, so often seen in old gardens with fluffy pink balls of bloom, and so vastly improved lately, and the Shirley poppies, of almost ethereal loveliness. Very early spring sowing for all of these. And though their bloom passes swiftly, it is precious in the garden and will linger in beauty in the memory.

Ruskin said "The poppy is painted glass. It never grows so brightly as when the sun shines through it. Whenever it is seen against the light, or with the light, always it is a flame and warms the wind like a blown ruby."

He was writing, perhaps of the beloved "corn poppy" of England and the continent. But could he see the beauty of the poppies it is possible for us to grow today he might find yet other words to describe their jewel-like loveliness.

with friends and relatives in this community. E. E. Nichols has returned to Berkeley after spending a couple of weeks with his family on Gillette avenue. He was accompanied by Santa Cruz with his niece, Miss Nichols, who was spending the remainder of the summer with her mother, Mrs. Carl Nichols, who left for the north the previous week.

CHAPTER I.

NOISY, impatient Grand Central Station lowered its voice and consciously paused to make a path for Nikki as she walked across the concourse between the two tall men. It was a tribute to lissome youth and loveliness with golden lights, a figure that men wanted to paint or possess. At the gate she paused and spoke to her father.

"Goodbye dear, I'll wire you when we arrive. Steve will take good care of me." She smiled at the young man standing hat in hand, kissed her father and patted him lightly on the shoulder. "Don't worry so much about your old diamonds. I wish you were coming with us."

Peter Jerome smiled back at his only daughter. "Have a good time and give my love to Uncle Jim and Aunt Amy," he said. "Have your bags gone on down?"

"The redcap took them on to the train," said Steve. "We'd better go too." He grinned. "I'll keep Nikki away from wild horses and tame cowboys. Goodbye sir."

Nikki's father followed the course of his daughter and the man she was engaged to marry down the ramp and then he turned away to take a cab. But as he turned his eye caught a figure going through the gate, and he halted, startled.

He raised his arm in an involuntary gesture as though to call the man he had seen. Then he paused thoughtfully, wrote hurriedly in a notebook, tore out the sheet and gave it to a redcap with a dollar and careful directions. That done, Peter Jerome continued on his way, a worried line creasing his forehead.

IN her stateroom Nikki removed the tiny jacket of her tailored bolero suit, untied the visp of a veil and laid aside her straw sailor. Then she turned to the bags the porter had placed in her stateroom before she arrived. Nikki thought of the trip ahead with a feeling of anticipation. She hadn't seen her aunt and uncle for five years, which seemed suddenly a long, long time, because previously she had spent at least part of every summer on the Lazy R Ranch and Aunt Amy had really taken the place of a mother in her affections since her own mother had died.

Nikki supposed that Uncle Jim was busier now that he had turned the Lazy R into a dude ranch. She remembered him writing that "you easterners will always pay a good price to be entertained, but I can't tell anyone what I'll get for a carload of steers at Chicago." He had been very successful, Nikki knew.

Five years away. And during those five years she had finished school, made her debut, spent a year in Europe and become engaged to Steve Mallory, the young attorney who was this moment arranging his own luggage in another stateroom. He would join her in a few moments for Stephen Mallory was impatient of things which kept Nikki away from him, as he was impatient with details and monotony and dullness. She had known Steve less than a year but he had a way of brushing aside opposition.

Nikki glanced at her own profile in the mirror, a slightly imperious profile if she had recognized it as such, and pressed the release snaps on her dressing case.

She raised the lid and stood staring with sharply indrawn breath. She touched the case with one finger. It was an unconscious movement.

For in the case, instead of her own neat array of toilet articles, Nikki saw bundle upon bundle of green and gold currency heaped in fascinating disorder.

THERE were packets of ten dollar bills, twenties and fifties, precisely bound and each labeled "$1000." They had evidently been packed in stacks of denominations, but in movement the bundles had

TRUCK WORKS ON 3rd FLOOR STILLWATER, Okla. been mixed and confused. The first thought Nikki had was that the interior of the case looked like a bank teller's cage after an earthquake. Letting her breath out slowly she touched the money gingerly as though expecting to see it fade away and be replaced by the familiar golden tops of the jars in her toilet case. But the money remained.

There must be at least a hundred of the bundles, Nikki thought. Whose money was it and why was it in her bag? Nikki thought back. The maid had packed for her. Well, the maid certainly hadn't put $100,000 in her bag. Nor had anyone else. It was impossible. But there it was, impossible or not.

A dozen thoughts started through her head. She should call the conductor. No, better call Steve. Maybe the money was stolen. Maybe it was counterfeit. They might be involved in some long investigation and have to return to New York. They might even be suspected of something, heaven knows what.

Then Nikki saw a brown morocco case among the piles of green and yellow, and she lifted out a man's wallet that apparently had been tossed into the case with the money. It was an ordinary enough wallet. Nikki had seen others like it in the hands of escorts who had leaped out bills to settle countless checks for countless dinners and lunches.

She opened the billfold and across the inside flap read in plain gold lettering: "Charles Dillon."

Nikki repeated the name to herself and she held the wallet a moment and then dropped it back into the bag. As she did there was a movement at the door. The lock clicked. Nikki turned half in panic, her right hand making an involuntary gesture to close the bag.

"That's right," said the man standing in the opened door. "Close it back up. And then just forget that you ever saw it." His eyes were on the case.

THE voice wasn't unpleasant. It was low and rather smooth. The voice of a man very sure of himself and very sure of the situation. Nor was the man unpleasant. His medium height fitted compactly into a dark suit. His age was indeterminate—maybe 35, maybe 40. A little too well barbered, thought Nikki.

She let the lid of the dressing case drop and glanced back at the owner of the voice. He wasn't looking at her. He saw the blond hair and the wide gray eyes that were even wider now as they stared at him. He saw the smooth column of her throat, the firm chin and the lower lip whose fullness was a perfect foil for the curving line of the upper.

Then he spoke again, but his eyes hadn't ceased their covetous admiration. The voice and the eyes don't fit, thought Nikki. The eyes are his. The voice he has stolen from someone else. It doesn't belong. She fought off a feeling that she was standing half-dressed.

"I am very sorry. The bags were together and the porter made a mistake. Not a very serious mistake, although I really haven't much use for the things in this." He held out a dressing case and Nikki saw then that the bag in his hand and the one which held the money were identical.

He stepped over to her and set the bag in his hand down, fastening the case which held the packets of bills.

"I think you will find all of your things in good order." His eyes were still upon her as he bowed slightly at the door and was gone.

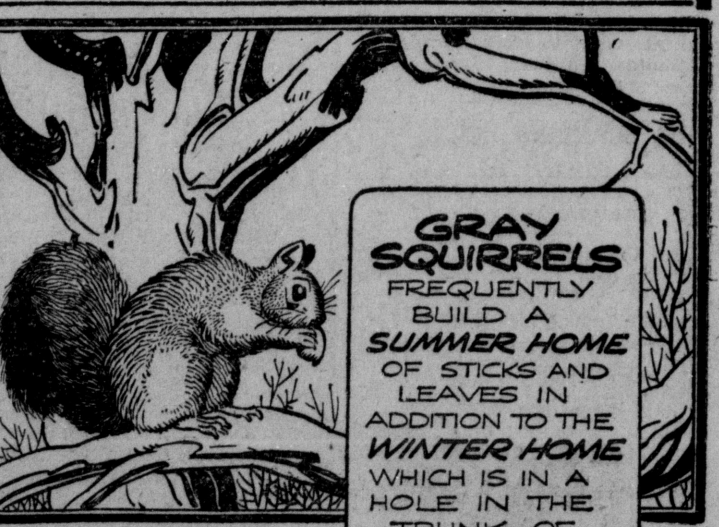

It was only seconds after he left that a knock sounded on her stateroom. Nikki hadn't moved.

The second rap was followed by "Redcap" and Nikki opened the door to take a note from the collector. She felt the train jerk and slowly glide into motion as it left the station. The note was from her father and read:

"Be on your guard but under no circumstances antagonize Charles Dillon who is on the same train. This extremely confidential. Will explain later."

LUTHER LEAGUE CONCLAVE HELD IN ANAHEIM

SANTA ANA TO BE FALL HOST

ANAHEIM, July 21.—Monthly meeting of the Southern California district central committee of Luther leagues was held at Anaheim's Grace Lutheran church Tuesday night with about 40 attending.

The Anaheim league was host with the Misses Frieda Schubert, Eileen Baumbach and Margaret Grinde in charge of serving refreshments. The affair was held in the church parlors.

President Kenneth Sorenson of Santa Ana presided over the business meeting, where leagues of Los Angeles, Torrance, Corona, Santa Ana and Anaheim were represented. Reports of committee chairmen and officers took a major part of the evening.

Plans were made for a Labor day picnic to be held at Griffith park this year. Whereas in former years the Labor day picnic concluded in the afternoon, it was planned to carry the program into the evening this year with a wiener bake supper and a treasure hunt to follow. About 150 attend these events.

The fall rally will be October 20 at Santa Ana's St. Peter's church with the theme "Keeping Faith in the Bible and Keeping Faith With the Church."

Samuel Hunziker of Anaheim, who has been appointed California chairman for the pocket testament movement, reported on this nationwide endeavor to make the Bible available to all people at any time through the publication of pocket-size editions of each book of the Bible.

The reading course competition being carried on among the leagues was discussed. Points are awarded for the most number of books read from an approved list.

LAGUNA BEACH COUNCIL IS ASKED TO SOUND-PROOF POUND

LAGUNA BEACH, July 21.—Dogs fared badly last night, their presence at or in the city pound being resented by a delegation from the entrance to Laguna Canyon, where is situated the "Hotel de Pooch." Laguna's luxurious lounging place for impounded curs. Mrs. Mary Foster demanded that something be done by the council to sound-proof the dogs, the dog-house, or in some other way protect the slumber of the neighbors.

The howling of the caged beasts, Mrs. Foster said, rendered sleep impossible. Later, Councilman Jester, himself a resident of the neighborhood affected, added his word of protest against present conditions. Recognizing the need for alleviation of the noisy situation, tentative plans were formulated, looking towards removal of the pound to the city dump (a voice: "that's where it belongs!") some two miles up the canyon, on a site adjoining the city's only federal building, the latter being 85x10 feet in its three dimensions and strictly utilitarian in purpose. In sharp contrast to former years, no voice was raised in defense of Laguna's errant pooches, or their impending banishment to the city's department of used household articles.

RADIO ROW ENDS IN DIVORCE

After a social afternoon the group presented Miss Mark with a set of pottery. Refreshments of ice cream, pecan roll with a heart center, individual cakes and fruit punch were served on small tables decorated in a bridal motif.

Present besides the honoree and hostesses were Miss Margaret Phillips, of Pasadena; Miss Jean Thurston, of Los Angeles; Mrs. Valore Applebury, of Whittier; Miss Dorothy Suiter, of Anaheim; Mrs. Virginia Grafton, of McKittrick; Misses Joy and Fern Schnitzer, Margaret Schauer, Billie McConnell, Fern Mark and Janice Dales.

Mrs. Ralph Emerson and baby son were brought home Friday from St. Joseph hospital. Miss Marilyn Kellogg is spending a week with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Don Vance, in Riverside.

LAGUNA POST RETURNS CASH

LAGUNA BEACH, July 21.—Donation by and to the Laguna Beach council were in vogue last night. At the request of the Festival of Arts Committee, $175 was granted, to be used in decorating the streets during the festival period. The work of installation, in sockets already in place on the city's light poles, will also be assumed by the council, through its street department.

According to a request from Christopher C. J. Valente, $50 was donated toward purchase of equipment for baseball teams recently organized. The balance of the expense of purchasing necessary impedimenta will be defrayed by donations from various sources.

In an unprecedented happening the city council was presented with a check for $13.29, accompanied by a letter from American Legion Post 222, stating that a surplus existing from its recent July 4th fireworks display, towards which city council made a substantial donation, was being returned to its donor. As far back as city history goes, this is the first time that money ever came back, after being kissed "good-bye," and felicitations mixed with wonderment were exchanged. "This little gesture goes far towards restoring the old-time belief in Santa Claus," was one councilman's comment. Accompanying letter and check, was a handsome American flag, 5x8 feet in size, the forty square feet of which will burgeon proudly from the flagstaff at Heister Park, where the July 4 celebration was held.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, July 21.—Mrs. James Harbin and young son returned Sunday night from a week in San Diego and found awaiting them old friends, Mr. and Mrs. James McFarlane and two children. Mr. McFarlane is gunnery officer on the U. S. S. North Hampton and the family go to San Francisco within a week when the ship sails for the north. Mrs. Harbin is expecting her third child, a boy, in a few days.

W. Flothower of Compton, Mrs. Irvin Hagen of Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Canady and two children of Long Beach and Mrs. Marion Flothower and daughter, Margaret Flothower of Norwalk.

A number of Rebekahs of the local Aloha lodge attended the installation service held Saturday evening at Sycamore Rebekah in Santa Ana where the installation work was carried on by Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, District Deputy President and her staff from Aloha lodge.

Francis Penhall made a business trip to Brawley the first of the week. Sunday evening visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Del Rio included Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Albert, of Midway City; A. W. Weddle, wife and two sons and Oldenberry of Huntington Beach; A. W. Johnson, of Wilmar.

LIGHT TOURNEY QUEEN SOUGHT

BALBOA, July 21.—An army of Snow Whites is expected to invade this city as soon as contestants in the Snow White contest, being staged in connection with the annual Balboa Tournament of Lights, gets under way. Girls from all over Southern California, entered by their respective cities, will be seeking the honor of representing Snow White on the float which will be at the head of the parade on August 20.

Snow White was named queen of the water festival some time ago. On a float representing the enchanted forest, Snow White and the seven dwarfs will be one of the features of this year's event. Arrangements have been made with the Walt Disney studios securing the original costume used by the Snow White model in making the picture.

The final judging will be done at the Newport Harbor Yacht Club by a committee of judges. Walt Disney has been named as one of the judges.

PETITION REQUESTS LOCAL MAN BE MADE LAGUNA CHIEF

LAGUNA BEACH, July 21.—Last night's session of city council transacted much business, before an audience that packed the chamber to overflow. Main interest centered around two opposing petitions, one of which, bearing 300 signatures, demanded that the council "appoint a local police officer with years of experience"—the individual being unnamed—to the office of police chief.

The other petition, bearing 175 signatures, asked that the recent appointee, Chief Gene Woods of San Marino, be retained, given a chance to re-vamp and modernize the local department, and extended every co-operation by the council and the citizens of Laguna Beach.

Following a motion by councilman Charles Jester, police commissioner, that the larger petition be filed, (this being before the council petition was read) Councilman Hugh K. Peabody, who voted for Woods' appointment as chief two weeks ago, asked why local men were not considered. Mayor Howard G. Heisler, speaking directly to the audience, reviewed the rapid growth of Laguna Beach from a hamlet to a city; he also stated that modernization of the police force was an imperative need. Mr. Heisler went on to say that after a most careful review of existing conditions, it was quite apparent that the personnel of the force did not, by the very fact of having had only local experience, possess a man versed in modern police work.

Otherwise, the Mayor said, the appointment would have gone to the local man, if qualified. He pointed out that Woods' years of experience; his record of work done in other small communities since leaving Berkeley, gave sufficient guarantee that training in police work, under Woods, would qualify any diligent policeman for consideration in the future. Chief Woods, himself, called on to say a few words, denurred at speech-making, stating that he would prefer to be judged by results. His first day in office, he said, had been signalized by a gas-station hold-up; the two suspects, now under arrest, had made confessions. He pledged his utmost efforts in modernizing the local force, and asked for patience and co-operation. At the close of his talk, Chief Woods was given an ovation. Both petitions were filed, the larger one being, on Jester's amended motion, "denied and filed."

HARTNETT TAKES OVER AS CUB PILOT

Seabiscuit To Remain On Coast

WAR ADMIRAL RACE IN FALL STILL POSSIBLE

Catcher-Manager

WRIGLEY HOPES FOR REVIVAL OF '32 FLAG DRIVE

BY STEVE SNIDER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
CHICAGO—A big, red-faced Irishman, delighted with his own good fortune but sad for the man he replaced, took over the job of managing the Chicago Cubs today after 17 years service as the club's catcher.

Charles Leo Hartnett, 37, a man everybody likes, was made manager by Owner Phil K. Wrigley, who, dissatisfied with the team's fourth place position in the National league standing, fired Charlie Grimm.

Hartnett, Grimm and several newspapermen were ushered into Wrigley's office, all sensing what was about to occur since rumors of a drastic change in the club had been circulating for a week.

"Gentlemen," Wrigley said, "I've decided to make Hartnett the manager."

The Cubs were 51-2 games out of first place, had lost their last game, which ended a seven-game winning streak. Grimm, a smile creeping slowly over his face, might have been thinking of an almost identical conference in 1932, when Wrigley announced that he was replacing Rogers Hornsby.

The team then was six full games behind the league leader.

"Well, Leo," Grimm said, "I sure hope you can win the pennant."

With that club of 1932, Grimm produced a 14-game streak that landed it in the world series with the New York Yankees. Wrigley felt that Hartnett's appointment would give the Cubs the same stimulation.

Although Grimm's contract runs until the end of 1938, his release was effective today. He will be paid for the full term of his contract.

Wrigley and Hartnett claimed to have made no arrangement as to Hartnett's salary as manager.

"Leo will not be fired if the team fails to win the pennant," Wrigley said. "That's too short notice. I think I'm safe in saying he'll be given a contract for 1939."

"Gaby's" major league career—17 years with the Cubs—is one of the most brilliant in baseball. He went to them in 1922 from the Worcester, Mass., club of the Eastern league and was a hit almost at once. As a hander of pitchers, he has no peer. His throwing arm is deadly. His knowledge of opposing National league batsmen probably is unequalled. His popularity is unlimited in Chicago and he stands almost as well with fans of every other city.

Friday Schedule
7:30 p. m.; Elks vs. Eltiste Company, 8:30.

Clearing the decks for their "natural" Friday night, the league leading Santa Ana Elks and Eltiste company nines polished off respective rivals last night at the Municipal Bowl.

Eltiste's International Truckmen had a narrow escape but nosed out Montgomery Ward's denoted champions, 2-3, in the feature attraction.

The Elks blanketed Treasurer Products, 7-0, behind a flossy one-hit hurling performance by Bruce Harnois, the former National Night leaguer. Leonard Jefferson got the only hit off Harnois, a single in the second inning. The rampaging Elks clubbed Wait Handley for 10 safeties, one a homer by Darwin Scott in the second with Art Heinisch aboard. The Elks got three more in the sixth and two in the seventh.

The feature game developed into a pitcher's battle between Armand (Lefty) Hanson of Eltistes and Roy Stout, Hanson won, but not until the Wardmen had given him a scare in the final frame. With two away Stout walked, Warren (Whitey) Mann singled, and Jim Wendorf drove a long fly to center field for the final out.

Both teams did all their scoring in the first two innings. First up, Montgomery Ward's Gene Hitt singled, Hal Youel advanced him with an infield hit and Rod Smiley singled to right, scoring Hitt. Wendorf's fielder's choice in the second with Jackson on base brought in the old other Ward run.

Hanson's double, and George Preble's single in the first broke the ice for Elts. The tying and winning runs were chalked up in the second when Ortega, Williams and Sorenson singled, loading the bases. Floyd Montgomery then smashed out a triple, cleaning the bases.

Slashing out with a 15-run attack in the first three innings, the Santa Ana City Garage swamped W. R. Gordon's favored Buick's, 16-4, last night at Santiago park diamond in a regular Automotive league softball tilt.

Elmer Smith, City Garage gunner, limited the opposition to six hits of which four came in the fourth inning when the Gordons made all of their runs.

The victory sent the City Garage into second place, one-half game behind the league-leading O. R. Buick's.

'Double-Header Night' At Orange County Athletic Club

Promoters have introduced a new wrinkle to the wrestling game, and the not-so-affectionate scene above indicates the innovation. The grapplers are sent into the ring in teams, which makes the referee's task (extreme left) the toughest of the evening. "Team wrestling" will be revived at the Orange County Athletic club tonight.

Gehrig's 'Iron Man' Act Begins To Bore

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—(UP)—I know this will brand me as a heretic of the first, second and even the third waters, but I feel obliged to say today that of all the things that bore me in baseball, nothing bores me so much as Lou Gehrig's feat of playing 2042 consecutive games for the Yankees.

The fact that Gehrig has not missed a league game since that afternoon of June 1, 1925, when he replaced Wally Pipp at first base, leaves me cold and I find the counting of the games he has played a much better means of wooing sleep than the counting of sheep.

To come right out and say so I consider Gehrig's insistence on playing even when he has fractured bones (such as he now has), convulsions, fever and the all-round miseries, as abnormal and none too flattering. Usually it is the dumb or the desperate who continue to carry on while in pain.

The human thing to do when you're hurt is to take it easy, not pull out all the stops marked "heroic." This is especially true when all your heroics will get you a gold watch and the sobriquet "Iron Horse."

Granting that Gehrig's refusal to give-in and miss a game when he is injured is good for his ego and ego, I wonder if it is good for his team? There have been times, when Lou was younger and better, when he was a better first baseman injured than anyone who could have been put in to replace him. But I doubt if that is true today. He knocked but one ball out of the infield against the Indians in the crucial game Monday, and it was plain that he was favoring his badly swollen thumb.

Suppose a manager found himself with a team composed entirely of men protecting a consecutive game streak? Picture a team where the catcher had a cracked wrist but insisted on going behind the plate, and the pitcher demanded his right to work, fractured skull or no fractured skull; a team where the shortstop hobbled about with a sprained ankle, the second baseman with pneumonia, the third baseman with beriberi, and the outfield with advanced cases of chestnut blight. It wouldn't take the supporters of such a team long to cease admiring such foolish gameness and demand that its players be replaced by able-bodied workmen. Yet such a team is entirely possible. In this country all men are free and equal and if one man can stay at a position until he drops, so can all the others.

Unless Gehrig relents before too many more years have passed and goes to the bench the rules of baseball should be changed. The present set-up makes no allowance for a wheel-chair at first base, or a crutch, and it won't be long before Gehrig will have to employ one or the other. The Yankees should have a ground rule whereby a fly ball dropping in Gehrig's wheel chair, or a liner ricocheting off his crutch or shawl, would be good for no more than two bases. And there should be a rule stating whether Gehrig's foot or the wheel of his chair must touch first base to constitute an out.

There would be no end of complications, in fact. I think Gehrig would do the game a great favor if he would just up and go fishing one afternoon next week. If he hasn't any tackle, he would be glad to lend him some, and I might even throw in a can of worms to boot.

The PAYOFF

BY JERRY BRONFIELD
(NEA Service Sports Writer)

One Antonio Galento, the Or-Massera, and Nathan Mann, but Mike Jacobs and others are hard to convince.

Boisterous, swashbuckling Galento, who is regarded in some quarters as a throwback to the days of John L. Sullivan, is becoming known as something different from the average run of heavyweights—exclusive, too, of the color he fairly oozes.

That he can hit with the power of a trip-hammer no one can deny—despite the fact that he seldom knows where his punch is going once he gets it under way. He's that type of swinger.

And if he can blast John Henry Lewis into dreamland, then he really has something. Because John Henry has yet to be knocked out. He has long since defeated the best his own division has to offer and has trained his sights on the heavyweight ranks.

Lewis has rare ring sense. He has the speed of a middleweight and hits with punishing force. He is by far a sharper puncher than Galento, and has proven in the past that he can absorb a pasting and still keep his feet—and what is still more important, keep possession of his faculties.

Galento hasn't been training on spaghetti and ale, as has been his boast in by-gone battles. He knows Lewis has too much speed for him, and if Tony is to do any solid punching he first must catch up with the light-heavyweight

With the revival of team wrestling scheduled tonight, increased attendance is anticipated at the Orange County Athletic club, according to Promoter "Bud" Levin.

This spectacular phase of wrestling was banned several weeks ago by the state athletic commission but was reinstated as an approved sport within the week.

Team wrestling, featuring four of the toughest matmen in the game, will be staged as a two-out-of-three falls "finish" match for the main event.

The teams taking part are Ted Christy, the "Sunland Terror," and Ken Hollis meeting Pat "Poppey" O'Brien and Tony Morelli.

In the semi-windup "Comrade" Josef Smallinski of Russia tangles with the "Black Secret" for two falls out of three with a 45-minute time limit on the match.

In the feature preliminary "Bolo" Ben Pilar, Filipino wrestler, meets Benny Wilson. In the curtain-raiser the "Red Devil" will meet "Lefty" Pacer.

ORANGE GIRLS WIN AT HOME

Hurling three-hit ball, Lois Terry paced the Orange Lionettes to a 9-3 victory over the Bank of America girls in a regular American league contest, played at the Orange city park last night before an overflow crowd.

Victory sent the Orange girls climbing in the league standings and made their game with the first place Young's Market girls at Piedler Field tomorrow night a "natural."

Playing errorless ball, the Lionettes chased two runs across the plate in the first, two in the fourth (when Miss Terry hit for the circuit with Ruth Lee aboard) and five times in the fifth on five hits and three Bank of America errors. Miss Terry's homer was one of the longest ever hit by a woman at the Orange park.

Margaret Mast, petite Lionette third baseman led the attack at the plate with three hits in three turns.

Seabiscuit, hitherto the railroad's best equine customer, will take up his summer residence on the Pacific Coast and compete in one or possibly two $25,000 specials.

Details were definitely set today for Seabiscuit to tangle with Ligaroti for a $25,000 purse at Del Mar Aug. 12 at a mile and an eighth—winner take all.

The Longacres course at Seattle started the original bidding for Seabiscuit, offering $15,000 for a three-cornered mile with Ligaroti and Specity as the two other contenders.

Charles S. Howard, owner of Seabiscuit, told the Longacres management yesterday that he would be glad to take Seabiscuit to Seattle but he wanted a $25,000 purse, and the distance to be a mile-and-an-eighth. His son, Lin, and Bing Crosby, who jointly own Ligaroti, are willing to race Ligaroti in the Northwest if these conditions are announced.

However, Bert Baroni, owner of Specity, is still on the fence regarding the Northern race. He prefers a mile and wishes a substantial guarantee that Seabiscuit won't be scratched.

Thus far, Longacres has not "upped" its original offer of $15,000, so the race is still in the air.

Seabiscuit will carry 126 pounds and Ligaroti will haul 116 in the Del Mar race. Whichever he is invited, and if he accepts, he can get in the affair with 106 pounds.

In the meantime, Howard still has hopes of tangling with War Admiral. "There is a chance that we'll get a shot at him in the East this fall," he said, "and it might actually take place at Belmont park. If anyone starts bidding for the race, naturally we would favor Belmont as they lost $30,000 in advance expenses on the race."

"With very little rain, Belmont is a faster course in the fall than in the spring," Howard continued. "It was deep when we were there in the spring and Seabiscuit certainly didn't like the footing."

However, the Seabiscuit itinerary is virtually unpredictable, as plans are changed almost overnight. Seabiscuit is on the trail of the golden fleece and he'll be sent where he has the best chance of knocking off a rich pot.

The Del Mar race will be a headline attraction for the "surf meets the turf" course, which opens shortly after Hollywood Park closes. There will be no betting on the event and it'll be strictly a sporting proposition.

However, it certainly looks like a very soft touch for Seabiscuit. Taken to top form, it would seem difficult, indeed, for him to muffle this one.

Ligaroti and Whickee, which recently staged a thriller at Inglewood, play a return engagement Saturday under level weights. Each was assigned 122 pounds today for the $5000-added Aloha Handicap at a mile-and-an-eighth.

The closing fixture has all the earmarks of a rousing encounter, and the Ligaroti camp is confident of "taking" Whickee.

Where Roosevelt Will Go Fishing

PRESIDENT SHOULD FISH IN COUNTY WATERS, ANGLERS SAY

If President Roosevelt were concerned solely with the quality and quantity of fish that are available there should be no necessity of going to the Cocos Islands and vicinity for every variety of fish in Western waters are snapping at hooks in Orange county coastline fishing areas.

This observation was made by anglers as the result of fishing in county waters last week as catches of record size are reported by live bait operators in the county.

Tuna, albacore, barracuda, white sea bass, rock cod, bonita and all the rest are being brought to gaff by local anglers and the streak of fishing will continue, according to reports.

President Second

On the first day of his fishing tour, the chief executive is reported to have caught a 32 pound yellowtail. Catches of this size have been common all during the 1938 season in Orange county waters, operators point out, and it is not necessary to have a battleship to make the catch.

Thus far the President's fishing has been second to that of Colonel E. M. Watson. The Colonel pulled in a 60 pound grouper the first day out, in the Magdalena waters where the presidential party did most of its first day of fishing.

In response to a popular demand, Darrell King, Newport Pier boat operator, today announced a new schedule for his boat the May-B. Starting at once, the May-B will leave Newport Pier at 3 a. m., and will be devoted to catching albacore and tuna.

No definite run has been set for the boat, King told the Register, but it is understood that most of the fishing will be done in county and Catalina waters.

Bait has been perfect and the fishing has been the best in the history of the coast line, according to King, who is using an airplane to spot schools of fish and then direct his boats to the school. This use of an airplane to spot the fish is the first in the vicinity.

KIWANIS ANGLERS ON FISHING TRIP

Headed by Orlyn Robertson and Dr. G. Emmett Raitt, a group of 22 anglers from the Santa Ana Kiwanis club cast aside the cares of the business and professional world for a few hours as they left the 19th Street Landing, Newport, on the boat Tillicum for a fishing trip in Orange county waters.

The group from the service club left at 6 a. m. today and at press time had not returned. Robertson expressed optimism yesterday when he announced at the club's regular meeting that sacks would be provided for the waitresses to bring home their catches.

The Santa Ana Kiwanis club is well known for their interest in the sport of angling and a record catch is expected.

Fishing Season Held the Finest In Coast History

With seven marlin swordfish taken by sport anglers to date this season, two over 300 pounds, four over 200 pounds, and only one below 100 pounds, the fishing has been as fast as they can bait their lines; and white sea bass running at night—Santa Catalina Island reports the greatest fishing season as far back as old timers can remember.

PIRATES SPLIT TWIN BILL YET GAIN ON N. Y.

NEW YORK (UP)—The New York Giants appeared to be coming apart at the seams today.

The cruelest blow the Giants have had to take all season came yesterday when the seventh place St. Louis Cardinals rose up and smacked them down twice, 7-2 and 7-1. The double defeat dropped them to a game-and-a-half from the top, left them only four games ahead of the third place Cubs.

The Cards southpawed the Giants to death—"Lefty" Shoun letting them down with four hits in the opener and Bob Weiland keeping nine scattered in the nightcap. Homers by Leiber and Seeds were the only runs made off Shoun, and Ott's homer was the only run off Weiland. After the Giants were highly erratic, making two errors in each game.

Johnny Mize, Cards' first sacker, hit three homers in the second game, driving in five runs. It was the second time this season he has hit three homers in one game, and it brought his season's total to 11. The Cards battered Cliff Melton for 11 hits in the opener and pounded "Slick" Castleman out of the box in six innings in the second game.

Cincinnati was dumped from third place when nosed 4-3 by the Boston Bees in a night game. Max West's home run with two mates aboard in the ninth brought the Bees from behind and beat Johnny Vander Meer who hurled five-hit ball.

Pittsburgh divided a doubleheader with the Phillies, but gained ground on the Giants. After Al Hollingsworth blanked the Phillies, 11-0, in the first game, they came back to win the second, 4-1, behind the five-hit pitching of Russ Bauers. The last place Phils scored 10 runs in the fifth inning of the opener to drive Bob Klinger, league's leading hurler, to cover. The Phils led 1-0 in the second game until the sixth when Gus Suh's homer tied the score. Then singles by Berres and Handley played the major role in scoring what proved to be the winning margin.

In the only American league game Washington beat Detroit, 7-2, with Wes Ferrell winning his 11th victory. Al Simmons hit homer No. 12. George Case led the Senators' attack with three singles.

HIGH STRIKE READY FOR DEL MAR MEET

DEL MAR—High Strike, ton horse of the Bing Crosby barn, was the first of Crosby's string to arrive at Del Mar. In company with his lead pony, the California bred champion pulled into the racetrack yesterday afternoon. He looked in top condition and will be ready to go postward early in the Del Mar season.

High Strike won the opening race on the opening day for Crosby last year, and went on to become the outstanding two-year-old champion, pulling out the Carlisbad Handicap on the closing day and prior to that time set the track record for five and one-half furlongs, going the distance in 1:06 and 1-5.

Eight other horses arrived at Del Mar. Six of them are the property of the motion picture actor, Walter Connolly. Boston Brook, owned by J. Harned and trained by L. R. Kutch, also came in this shipment.

ARMSTRONG AGREES TO MATCH IN CHI.

CHICAGO (UP)—Eddie Meade, manager of Henry Armstrong, tentatively agreed today to have the dual champion defend his featherweight boxing title against Frankie Covelli of Brooklyn in a Chicago baseball park in September.

Meade, en route to New York to help Armstrong train for his title fight with Light Champion Lou Ambers, conferred with Covelli's co-managers, Jimmy O'Grady and John Ricketts. Ricketts offered Meade a $20,000 guarantee and Armstrong's manager said he would return to Chicago next month to sign the contract. Armstrong also is welterweight champion.

Disregard Seniority On U. S. Court Team

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD
(NEA Service Sports Writer)

This is the lull before the storming of the tennis front—during which time Donald Budge has nothing of great import to do until he scorches the courts in the Davis Cup challenge round and the national championships at Forest Hills.

And while the stars prepare for the climax of the 1938 season, it becomes increasingly apparent that the United States this year probably will be represented by the youngest squad ever to play for any country in Davis Cup competition.

Now that the choice piece of silverware has returned to these shores after an absence of 10 years, the tennis fathers would like to hold onto it for a while and it is a safe bet to say that seniority privileges will be tossed overboard in preference to actual ability.

In that event you can count on Budge, Frankie Parker, and Bobby Riggs as three of the defenders, with the other two a toss-up.

Riggs is 20, Parker and Budge are 22. Youths of college age playing in the hottest of international net warfare.

Budge, spearhead of the winning attack last year, is a definite fixture on the Davis Cup squad as long as he remains an amateur.

Parker acquitted himself nobly in his first year of cup play last season. He probably will gain the number two singles post again.

RIGGS SEEN AS BUDGE'S SUCCESSOR

Riggs was left off the squad last summer, but the remarkable game

Hartnett Takes Over As Leader Of Cubs

Hartnett has caught 100 or more games for 12 years, last year tying the "iron man" record of Ray Schalk, former Chicago White Sox star. His lifetime batting average is .300.

In 1935, he was voted the National league's most valuable player.

During his exceptional year in 1937, when he hit .354, he groaned frequently, "I could hit .500 in this league if I could run." It's a physical impossibility for Hartnett to get to first base speedily. He weighs 226 pounds, mostly stomach, and stands six feet, one inch.

The managerial chance did not affect Tony Lazzeri, member of the world champion New York Yankees for 12 years, who is a candidate for a front office job though still a player and coach.

Hartnett said he would make no immediate changes. He said he would stand by Grimm's selection of pitching for the next few days, indicating he would send "Dizzy" Dean against the New York Giants as scheduled Friday.

STRIKES BRING WEEK'S NOTICE

(Editor's Note: Sweden's labor court is swift in levying penalties against either employer or employee if there is violation of a collective bargaining agreement. Webb Miller writes in the third dispatch of his series on labor laws in Sweden and Great Britain.)

BY WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1938, by United Press)
STOCKHOLM, July 20.—(UP)—A "snap strike," a sudden abandonment of work by union members, is impossible in Sweden, for the law compels workers to give a week's notice before walking out. Failure to do so brings quick punishment from the labor court, the court of last resort on labor matters. Punishment is equally swift in case there is violation of a collective bargaining contract and both employer and employee are liable to fines.

Case is Cited
Ten bricklayers employed by

Thure Karlsson of Helsingborg struck for higher wages after their union had signed a collective agreement on wages and hours. The case was taken to the labor court which made a thorough investigation. The decision was that the bricklayers had violated their agreement. Each worker who struck was fined $125 and their union was fined $2500 for allowing them to walk out in violation of the contract.

The court is equally stern with an employer who violates a contract, even if only one worker is involved. The Orebros Shoe Co. was accused by the union of breaking a collective bargaining contract with a workman. The labor court sustained the union's charge and ordered the management to pay a $250 fine, to pay $50 to the union for the costs of the litigation and to credit the employee in question with 96 hours working time.

King Gustav Helped
From 1929 to 1935 the labor court handled 1272 actions of which the workers brought 1026. Employers referred 238 cases to the court and the remainder were brought by consent of both parties to the dispute.

Although Sweden is a democracy,

Hops Atlantic—And Does It the Hard Way

A fervent admirer of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Douglas P. Corrigan had a yen to fly the Atlantic—and did just that, alone like Lindy, and in a ship similar but smaller and less powerful than the Spirit of St. Louis used in 1927 by his hero. The amazing young man in the flying machine, who announced when he left Floyd Bennett Airport in New York that he was just returning to California, is pictured above in the cockpit of his plane just before he took off on a flight that landed him in Ireland.

the personality of King Gustav has had much to do with the development of legislation on labor and industrial problems. He probably is the best-loved king in Europe and there is immense respect for the crown on the part of both labor and capital. The king takes an active interest in the working out of Sweden's problems.

"Some of the Flaws"
Both labor leaders and representatives of employers seemed surprised when I told them of the world-wide interest in the Swedish system. They have come to take the system for granted, although they still do not consider it perfect. Erik Broden, director of the Swedish employers' federation—a sort of "capitalists' union"—pointed out what he considered some of the flaws.

"Employers generally have found it preferable for workers to be strongly organized," he told me. "We find it better to deal with them when they have responsible leaders and strong organizations. But one difficulty with the collective agreement system for fixed periods is that a quick alteration in wage rates when industry is afflicted by depressions is ruled out. And once a certain wage level is reached it is hard to scale it downward. Through education and experience the workers have learned that if the employers do not make profits, wages will be lost. As a result, they usually do not begrudge employers fair and reasonable profits."

"We are somewhat surprised by the international interest in our system. We do not think we have discovered anything sensational. It is largely a matter of experience and education and the spirit under which the system operates. If applied in some other country where conditions are different, our system might not work as smoothly as it does here."

DEFECTIVE WINDSHIELDS MUST BE REPLACED IN TWO DAYS

Defective windshields must be replaced within 48 hours, if a police officer orders such equipment replaced, Capt. H. C. Meehan, head of the California highway patrol in Orange county, stated in a series of answers to questions sent in by interested motorists.

"You are not only required to act within 48 hours but you produce evidence in court on your appearance date if arrested, that your windshield conforms with requirements of the vehicle code," Captain Meehan said.

Tells of Misdemeanor
It is a misdemeanor to fail to give an arm signal when driving a car and making a turn at an intersection where another vehicle may be affected, Captain Meehan said. The signal must be given for the last 50 feet before arriving at the intersection.

Other questions and answers presented by Captain Meehan are as follows:

Weight Limits Given
Have local authorities the right to increase weight limits on vehicles within their city or county boundaries? This question is very puzzling. I have received so many conflicting opinions. Section 712 of the Vehicle Code is plain on this subject. It provides "The legislative body of any county, city and county or city shall have power by ordinance to permit the operation and moving of vehicles and loads upon highways under their respective jurisdiction of a maximum gross weight in excess of the maximum gross weight of vehicles and loads grossed in this (Vehicle) Code. This section shall have no application to highways in the state highway system."

As an employee I signed an application for a minor to secure a chauffeur's license. He is now employed by another person and he is a careless driver, what can I do to avoid a law suit should he become involved in an accident? Make application to the Division issuing licenses requesting that you be relieved of responsibility as signer of his application.

BRITISH ARMY CURBS SPORTS
LONDON (UP)—The British army has decided to curtail sporting events in the future in order to abolish the "regimental gladiator" and prevent games from becoming semi-professionalized. The idea, according to the war office, is to encourage all soldiers to take an interest in sport.

ADVANCE IN TIRE BUILDING IS SEEN
LOS ANGELES, July 21.—Carloads of a special rayon cord arriving at the Goodyear factory here, bring to light what is reported to be "the greatest advance in tire construction in the last quarter century."

Known as Rayotwist, the cord is described as a revolutionary new silk-type that is spun especially for tires from smooth, slender, continuous rayon filaments. Rubber saturated plies of it are built up to form a tire body over which goes the rubber tread.

"Its advantage is lightness with great strength," explains Goodyear's Western Division sales manager, H. G. Harper. "A Rayotwist cord is one-third lighter yet 11 per cent stronger than conventional cord."

Jimmie Fidler in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, July 21.—Settin' Around (Twentieth Century-Fox): Few theatre-goers realize the debt they owe Hollywood's technical directors; for instance, Major Cyril Seys Ramsey-Hill, late of the British and Egyptian armies, and a great-grandson of Lord Byron. The major, just now, is campaigning for authenticity of detail in this studio's new "colossal," "Suez."

Tyrone Power kissed Loretta Young's hand in a scene, and the major screamed bloody murder. Loretta was playing an unmarried lady; to kiss her hand would be to insult her. In another scene a uniformed officer bowed deeply to a royal personage and backed out of the room. Again the major stopped production to correct an error. The officer should have inclined his head, taken three steps backward, one to the side, then turned and walked out. The script called for harem girls to dance at an Egyptian banquet. The major over-ruled that with proof that it simply isn't done in the best Egyptian society.

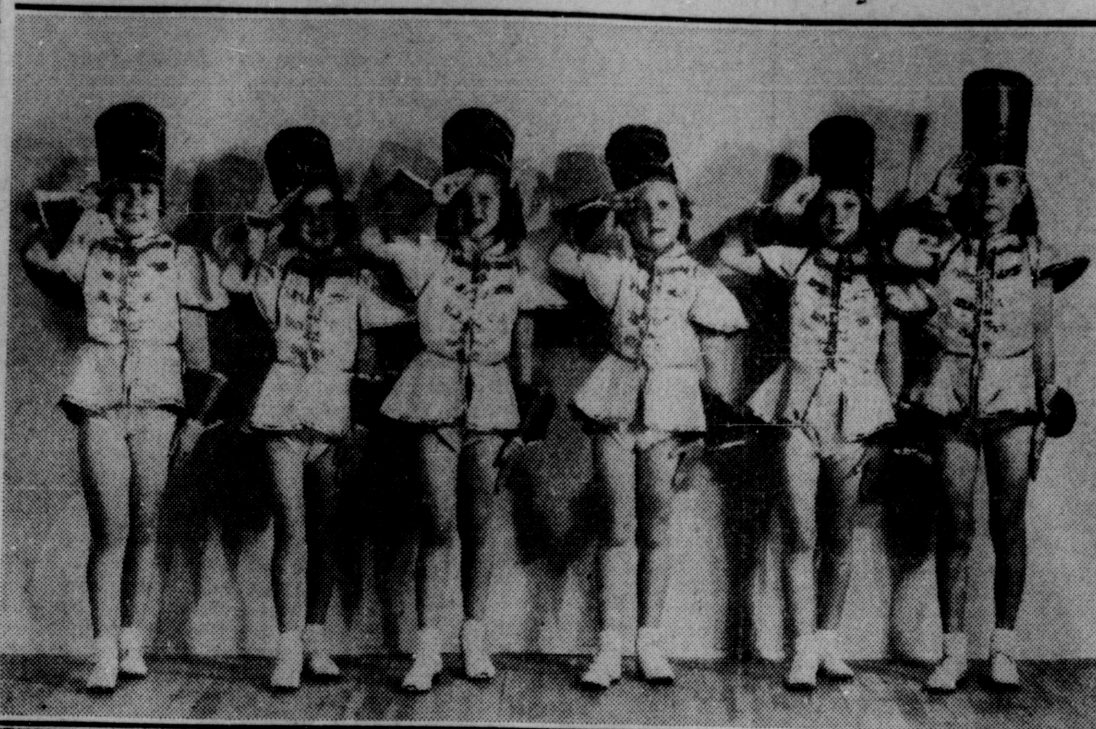

Little things, it's true, but in the aggregate they mean much to a picture, for most of us want our screen fare to faithfully depict life. I must admit, however, that I am unable to share Major Ramsey-Hill's current sorrow. It seems that at the conclusion of an Egyptian feast, the guests have a habit of slapping their stomachs, pronouncing themselves full, and emitting a resounding belch. That detail has been sacrificed to our ideas of good taste.

Visited the "Wooden Anchors" set—and witnessed the humiliation of Hollywood's most noted sailor. As owner of the Pacific Coast's fastest yacht, Preston Foster should have been right at home on the deck of a submarine chaser which has been constructed for the picture on stage 16. He looked very nautical and swayed very gracefully as the boat pitched and rocked under the persuasion of four husky armed with levers. But as the huge battery of lights heated the set, the atmosphere became stuffy, Preston became less jaunty—and Director John Ford became less and less pleased with his performance. "Cut," he shouted midway through a take, "Preston, you're not putting out a thing!" Preston looked at him glassy-eyed. "That," he gasped, "is your mistake!" And made a wild dash for his dressing room.

On the "Hold That Co-Ed" set, Marjorie Weaver was playing a serio-comic scene with John Barrymore, whose wit becomes more cynical each year. Marjorie was supposed to cry—and tried nobly—but the tears refused to come. "Think of the past," John suggested, "hasn't anything sad ever happened to you?" Marjorie shook her head. "Well, then," said the Barrymore, with the bitterness that he likes to affect, "remember what has happened to other girls in this business—and contemplate the future!"

Popular S. A. Grotips To Perform Sunday In L. A.

Proof of the abilities of two dance groups from Santa Ana, shown above, was the recent reception accorded the youthful dancers at the Ambassador hotel in Los Angeles. So popular were their presentations that both groups have been invited to perform at the annual Sheriff's barbecue, Los Angeles county, this Sunday at the Santa Anita ranch. All of the girls have been trained at the Vera Getty Dance Studios and are between the ages of five and eight. The children are accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Janet Martin.

In the Military Six group in the upper photo are shown, from left to right, Marilyn Webb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Webb, 411 West 15th street; Edwina Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cox, Tustin; Doris Milbrat, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Milbrat, 409 Lacy street; June Rogers, Placentia; Corrine Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Turner, 1526 West Ninth street; and Jean Spellman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Spellman, 1123 North Parton street.

In the Baseball Five the children are: Ruth Lee Dove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Dove, 823 South Parton; Nayan McNeill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross McNeill, 1245 South Garnsey; Dorothy Mae Haan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Haan, 830 South Birch street; Iris Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wilson, 714 West Second street; and Phyllis Ehrlie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Ehrlie, 1302 East Fourth street. —(Baker Studio Photo).

FEROCIOUS RED ANTS KILL TWO PUPS, FATALLY ATTACK CHICKS

Either a new breed of ants has invaded the Midway City section or those already here have for some unknown reason become ferociously inclined, according to recent happenings reported.

At the Thomas McFadden home, three young puppies had been left outdoors when their mother was killed, and while playing together in a screened-in pen which McFadden had arranged for them one of the puppies suffered convulsions and upon investigation it was found to be covered with many large ants, seemingly bent upon the helpless animal's destruction.

Two Puppies Die

Either the poison from the ants' stings or else the swallowing of some of the ants, caused the dog's death within half an hour. The following day a second of the pups, which that day showed no signs of injury from the ants, also died suddenly.

At Westminster, Mrs. J. H. Walton had a hen and chickens in the yard. Hearing the cries of the small chicks, Mrs. Walton looked out only to see the hen perched on some object in the yard and thought the chicks trying to coax her down. Later when their cries did not cease she went to them only to find them almost covered with the large red ants which seemed ready to fight anything in sight. With a short time all of the chicks were dead.

Such instances have never been known here before.

SANTIAGO BRIDGE PACT LET

WORK TO START IN TEN DAYS

Actual construction of the new $45,723 re-enforced concrete slider bridge across Santiago Creek on South Glassell street just beyond the southern boundary of the city of Orange, will begin within the next ten days.

This was the announcement today of county officials who received word from the state department of public works that the contract for the project had been let to the firm of Byerts and Dunn, of Los Angeles, which submitted the lowest bid. All bids were opened in Los Angeles on July 14 and then certified for consideration by the public works department, in Sacramento.

Replaces Wooden Span

Provisions of the contract include the agreement that actual work must begin 10 days after the contract is let, and that it must be completed in six months.

The bridge, which will replace the present two-lane wooden structure will have three traffic lanes, a center span of 92 feet, anchored on concrete piers, and will have a 49-foot approach on each end.

During the time the bridge is under construction, county officials said, traffic will be diverted to Santiago and Cambridge streets on either side.

PATRIOTS WILL REUNITE FRIDAY

Sons and Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War will join in their annual picnic Friday evening at Santiago park, officials of the organizations announced today. The picnic is scheduled for 6:30 p. m.

Those attending are expected to bring their own food and table service while coffee will be furnished by the committee in charge of arranging tables and preparing the coffee. The committee is composed of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Brayton, W. I. Davis, Carrie S. Sheriff, E. J. Parker and Nettie M. Griswold.

Heard of Gettysburg

Perry Grout, commander of the Sons, and Ella Smith, president of the Daughters, will be in charge of the entertainment program which follows the picnic dinner.

It has been suggested that those who want steaks may bring them to the park to cook there. Commander Grout said they expect to have some national and department officers who recently returned from Gettysburg at the picnic to relate some of their impressions of the 75th anniversary of the historic battle.

The herring is the world's most important food fish. It is outranked by the codfish only in North America.

COLD BATHS, JUVENILE CASES, CITY'S AMBITIONS DISCUSSED

The courage it requires to take a cold bath in the early morning, strong influence of the church in reducing juvenile delinquencies, and Santa Ana's bid for rapid growth all were combined in talks that last night made the regular session of Smedley chapter No. One of the Toastmasters one of the most interesting in its history. The meeting was held at Daniger's.

Beautiful Hilltop Home
Opened for D. U. V.
Benefit Bridge

Shady corridors, a flower-garlanded patio, spacious rooms whose windows overlook a matchless view of all these charms were manifest yesterday in the beautiful home of the J. H. Pankeys on Skyline Drive, Lemon Heights, placed at the command of Sarah A. Rounds tent D.U.V. for a desert bridge party.

Mrs. Bern Baker were party chairman, and had assistance in carrying out her plans by a committee including Mesdames Yida Gossett, Florence Price, Thelma Willingham, Lois Cook, Pearl Louche, and Mrs. Pankey.

Twenty tables came into service for the dessert course of lemon chiffon pie and coffee. Each table was prettily decorated with flowers from the big gardens surrounding the home. Various tables had been reserved by hostesses for entertaining little private parties and bridge clubs. Mrs. R. E. Couch was one of these hostesses; Mrs. Ballard reserved four tables, and Mrs. Anna L. Derr entertained at two tables, her guests including Mesdames Wayne West, Jack Davis, Elizabeth Rupert, Lyle O'Hair, Sliton, Brown and several others.

Both auction and contract bridge were played, and prizes selected by the hostesses organization went to Mrs. Nellie Hawley of Laguna Beach, and Mrs. A. A. Schlamman of this city, bridge winners, and Mrs. Adelaide Lowe, door prize. The gifts were rare plants, carefully potted, all contributed by Mrs. Rowena Grant of Orange.

All the guests offered congratulations to Mrs. Baker upon the success of her plans, and the gratifying sum realized by the affair. Mrs. Pankey's graciousness in opening her home was fully appreciated also.

Mixing Bowl
BY ANN MEREDITH

All women must have been cast in the same mould when it comes to wishing that the Creator had taken time out to make just one more animal for meat. But when all signs fall and you can't think of another meat dish, there's always hamburger or chopped round steak to fall back on. And when you taste these stuffed meat cakes, you'll have the answer to this burning question of what to have for dinner, and why there were no more animals created.

LAYERED MEAT CAKES
1 pound ground beef mixed with 1/2 pound bulk pork sausage
1 teaspoon salt, some pepper, and 1 egg beaten with 1/4 cup cream.
2 cups soft grated bread, mixed with plenty of chopped onion and parsley.
Sage, salt and pepper to taste.
Toss in 2 tablespoons hot butter, then add water to moisten dressing.
Knead the meat, etc., until pliable, form into meat cakes. Put a spoonful of dressing on one cake, top it with another, pinch edges together and brown the cakes quickly in hot fat. Transfer cakes to a flat casserole, add 1 cup of your favorite soup, diluted, and bake 1 hour in a moderate oven.

Here is a case where you need to know your calories if you are a bit too hefty and in doubt as to whether or not you rate the stuffed hamburgers. Why not send for our fine big list? The requirements are: one of your best recipes and a stamped, return-addressed envelope.

TODAY'S RECIPES
Layered Berry Pie

2 cups pastry flour sifted with 1 tablespoon sugar and 1 tsp. salt.
1/2 cup butter.
1 well beaten egg mixed with 1/2 cup rich cream.
1 quart fresh berries.
1/2 cup sugar, and
1 cup whipped cream mixed with 1 cup sifted powdered sugar and 1 teaspoon vanilla.
Work flour and butter into a meal and use egg and cream. Put a mix to pastry consistency. Divide the dough into two parts, roll out and bake as two pie shells.
In one shell put the sugared berries, set the second shell directly over the berries, press down lightly to set it firmly, fill top shell with sugared whipped cream and chill it an hour before serving. (top shell should have more whipped cream, or berries under the cream, to completely fill the shell). The pie serves eight.

Cantaloup Preserves
2 oranges and 1 lemon, well scrubbed.
1 No. 2 can of crushed pineapple.
2 medium sized cantaloupes, peeled and cubed.
2 cups sugar.
Quarter oranges and lemons, remove seeds and pithy centers before running through the food grinder. Combine with pineapple and sugar, bring to a hard boil, add the cantaloupe and boil slowly, stirring often, until the preserve is rich and thick.

Recently Wedded Pair
Now Making Home
In Long Beach

New pleasantly settled in Long Beach, where Mr. Reside is employed, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Reside are receiving good wishes of a host of friends on their wedding which occurred June 20.

Mrs. Reside was Miss Marjorie Jacques, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Jacques, 501 East Seventeenth street, and her marriage to Mr. Reside, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Reside of Gary, Ind., was a very quiet event occurring in a little Los Angeles chapel. In fact it was known only to members of the family circle until Mr. and Mrs. Jacques recently announced it at a party complimenting their son-in-law and daughter.

Guests were invited to spend the evening in the Jacques home, and it was not until the hostess served refreshments that anyone suspected the romantic news to be disclosed. But when a prettily decorated bride's cake was produced and the daughter of the home was called upon to cut and serve it, everyone learned that she was Mrs. Reside rather than Miss Jacques. The engagement had been announced to close friends early in the spring.

After completing Santa Ana High school and a year at Junior college, the bride entered nurses' training school at Seaside hospital in Long Beach, where she has had two years of training.

Friends enjoying the party announcing the marriage included with the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Jacques, and their new son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Reside, the latter's three brothers, Robert and Paul Jacques of this city, and Arthur Jacques of Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Crawley of Jerome, Ariz., Mr. and Mrs. Blaker Smith of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. James Newman, Miss Katherine Goath of Orange, Miss Vivienne White, Miss Margaret Baxter, Miss Zilpha Maag and Tommie Weir.

Contract Club Enjoys
Village Gayeties
Planned by Hostesses

Almost made to order, seemed the combination of sunlight and bland breezes prevailing at Laguna Beach yesterday, when Mrs. Parke S. Roper and Mrs. Robert G. Tutthill chose that delightful spot in which to receive members of Wednesday Bridge club.

Breakfasting at Hotel Laguna as guests of the two club members through our Village with its fascinating little shops, galleries and seaside life. Following the breakfast an informal morning program, all gathered at the summer home of the Tutthills, 603 Coast boulevard, south, where the day's contract play was introduced.

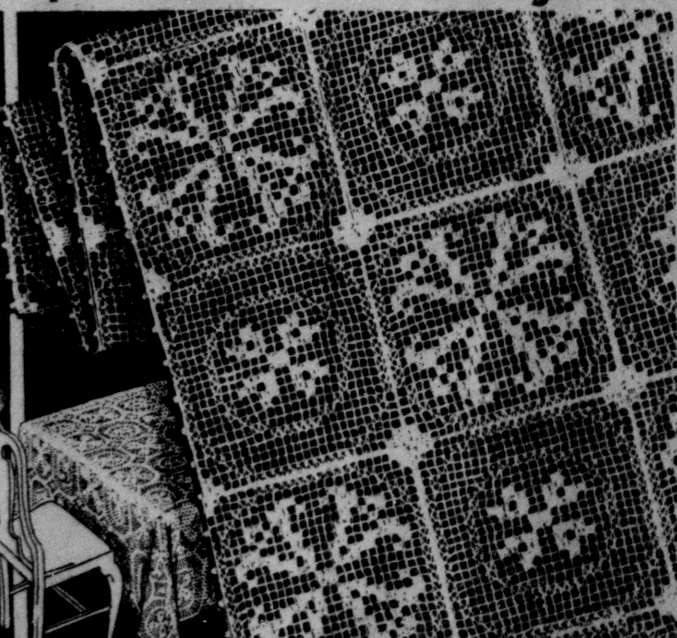

Since this was the final meeting of the season for the group, it seemed especially pleasant that all members should be present. Another enjoyable feature came with the award of prizes at the three tables following contract play. Mrs. Charles V. Davis, Mrs. George S. Briggs and Mrs. A. G. Platz were winners, and when Mrs. Briggs received her reward, she found it accompanied by friendly congratulations upon her birthday anniversary, which coincided with the day of the club party.

Sharing the hospitality of Mrs. Tutthill and Mrs. Roper were Mesdames A. J. Cruickshank, F. E. Parnsworth, James Harding, Roy Hall, Philip Hatzfeld, Earl Morrow, Irwin P. Landis, and the three prize winners, Mrs. Briggs, Mrs. Platz and Mrs. Davis.

DEPARTURE OF GUESTS

Guests this week in the Ralph S. Tutthill home, 416 Borchard avenue, have been Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tutthill of Enid, Okla., who were accompanied on the motor trip west by Mrs. Tutthill's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Bruce. While here, they all had the pleasure of renewing an old-time friendship with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neptune of Costa Mesa.

When the eastern concluded their Santa Ana visit they went to Cucamonga to be entertained in the home of other relatives, and will continue through the Pacific Northwest, visiting Oregon and Washington, and return home by way of Yellowstone National park.

Theater Party Planned
By Bridge Club for Mid-August

Receiving members of her bridge club last night in her home, 1819 North Ross street, Mrs. Douglas Perry expressed cordial greetings with the many garden flowers arranged in colorful profusion. These blossoms were largely from the gardens of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wells, and aided in promoting the gaiety of the evening.

Only one member of the bridge playing group was absent, Miss Lucille Howell. Mrs. Charles Stocker was asked to play in her place, and made the evening's high score, thereby winning the be-ribboned prize package provided by the hostess.

At the conclusion of bridge play, Mrs. Perry made the two card tables most inviting with linens and crystal, for serving a refreshment course which included cake with Spanish cream. While enjoying the dainties, the group planned a theater party and supper for mid-August, when members and guests will see Norma Shearer in "Marie Antoinette" at Carthy Circle.

Present last night with Mrs. Perry were Mesdames Jack Rimmel, R. U. Smith, Howard Fitzgerald, Wayne Bartholomew, John Van Dyke, Mark Lindsey, and their guest, Mrs. Stocker. Mrs. Fitzgerald will be the next party hostess.

Italian Supper Comes
As Bridal Courtesy
To Miss Bodman

Complimenting Miss Jeanne Bodman, whose betrothal to Ray H. Lindman, young Los Angeles attorney, was recently announced to her Sigma Tau Psi sorority sisters, was an enjoyable Italian supper of Tuesday night, at which the Misses Katherine Torrence and Mary Suttora were hostesses in Miss Suttora's West central avenue home, Newport Beach.

Spread with handsome Italian linen, the supper table bore a modernistic cluster of wedding bells, and place cards succeeded cleverly in combining a bridal motif with their Italian design. At the conclusion of the supper hour, guests showered miscellaneous gifts on the party honoree before turning their attention to bridge for the remainder of the evening.

In the group with the hostesses and their guest of honor, Miss Bodman, were the Misses Marian Digkey, Lila Davis, Anne Anich, Alma Graves, Blanche Siegel, Mesdames Harvey Bodman, Russell Rohrs and Arnold W. Todd.

MOUNTAIN HOUSE PARTY

Miss Marilyn Maag, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Maag, 219 East Washington avenue, left this morning for Big Bear where she will be a guest of the Frank Taylor family. They plan to spend two weeks at the mountain resort.

Ocean Trip Inspires
Bon Voyage Wishes

Quite a group of friends of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Johnston, 1214 South Broadway, motored to Los Angeles harbor last night to extend bon voyage wishes to them on their departure on a South Seas voyage.

Everyone was interested in the various places to be visited by the Santa Anans, who sailed at 10 p. m. on the S.S. Mariposa, directly for Honolulu. However, the Magic Islands will be but one point to be visited on their extensive tour, for they will touch at the Samoan Islands, Tahiti, Fiji, and all their exotic cities, en route to New Zealand, and eventually will visit Australian cities such as Sydney and Melbourne.

Very much the same sea lanes will be traveled on the homeward trip, which will bring them to Honolulu on August 31, when for the first time since their departure, they will have mail from home.

In the party seeing them off last night were T. Gray Johnston and Miss Marjorie Johnson, the Misses Jean Turner and Mildred Lukens, Mr. and Mrs. Leigh A. Galloway of Laguna Beach, Mrs. Edith Johnson, staff at the Johnston Business Institute and Secretarial school and a number of school students, among other friends.

Mrs. Couch herself was unable to be present, so asked Mrs. Ralph Mitchell to act as hostess for her, and direct the play within the little group. Members pivoted at ease at two tables, and Mrs. Mitchell presented the prizes provided by Mrs. Couch, to Mrs. John Turton and Mrs. Edward Opper. Mrs. Opper was a guest, substituting for the party hostess. Others in the group were Mesdames John Cozad, Jesse Wright, George Lippincott, Worth Alexander, Earl Lepper, and the acting hostess, Mrs. Mitchell.

Hospitably opening their summer home on Balboa Island to J.O.C. class members of First Baptist church, the W. B. Locketts proved delightful hosts at the mid-summer social meeting of the group. Mrs. Edwin Baird and Mrs. Charles Rye joined Mrs. Lockett in plans for the affair, which included a covered dish supper in the evening for husbands of members.

Afternoon hours were given over to beach sports, swimming and boating, although many members preferred the quieter pleasure of needlework and chat, and the view of colorful bay life commanded by the wide landscape windows of the summer home.

Pleasures of the supper hour were succeeded by a short business meeting conducted by Mrs. E. A. Bell, with Mrs. Gertrude Minor leading in devotionals.

In the party with Mr. and Mrs. Lockett and their children, Gordon, Billy and the Misses Ruth, Mildred, Margaret and Helen Lockett, were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Comer of Laguna Beach (Mrs. Comer is Dr. Grace Comer); Mesdames M. M. Holmes, Earl Morris, A. L. Brooks, G. K. Kilburn, Arthur Munsel, E. T. Powers, Eugene McBurney, Lena Edith Johnson, Charles G. Nalle, Messers, and Mesdames Edward Baird, Albert Hill and their guest, Miss Maude Moody of Glendale; E. A. Bell and their niece, Miss Ruth Vawter of Berkeley; Eugene Severance and his daughter, Miss Jane Severance; Warner Baird, William Lowe, the Misses Helen Lowe, Jayne Nalle, Jean McBurney, Chelena McBurney, Roberta McBurney, Lulu Minter, Anis Platt, Mame Havens, Ernie White, Gertrude Minor, Nelle Clingan, Edith Watkins, Mildred Holmes, Betty Magruder and Gloria Stafford.

Three Hostesses Plan
Pleasant Party for
Torosa Circle

When members of Torosa Sewing circle met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Hattie Cozad, 638 French street, they found places at an attractively appointed small tables for the enjoyment of fruit jello with whipped cream and coffee. This interval was in advance of the afternoon of bridge and 500.

Mrs. Lucille Myers and Mrs. Kate Perkins were co-hostesses with Mrs. Cozad in planning the affair. They had chosen prizes to award winners in card play. Fortune smiled on Mrs. Alice Towner Ream when she received the door prize, Mrs. Alice Lockett with high score in bridge and Mrs. Mabel Elliott with low score, received equally pretty gifts, as did Mrs. Stella Chaney and Mrs. Sarah Gorr with high and low scores in 500.

Sharing the hospitality of Mrs. Cozad and her co-hostesses, Mrs. Perkins and Mrs. Meyers, were Mesdames Emma Cochems, Alice Tolhurst, Eleanor Cozad, Anna Ream, Lettie Morgan, Gertrude Butler, Anna Scott, Frances Brooks, Mollie Anderson, Sue Helfrich, Elizabeth Fairfield, Dora Warner, Leona Talbott, Della Miller, Elfreda Olson, Sarah Gorr, Mabel Elliott, Laura Sanborn, Stella Cheney, Mildred Bronson, Opheila Snoddy, Gladys Pett, Emma Wright, Mary Schlamman, Mary Hanson and Martha Vandewalker.

Calumpit Auxiliary

Events in prospect for Calumpit U.S.W.V. groups promise a varied program for the remaining summer months. Many of these came up for discussion at this week's meeting of Calumpit auxiliary, at which Mrs. Louella Randel presided in K.C. hall.

First of the social events will be next Tuesday night's covered dish dinner for both camp and auxiliary, to be held in the new Huntington Beach pavilion at 6:30 o'clock. Mrs. Effie Halloway was named chairman of a planning committee composed of Ethel Lindley, Alice Gay, Cora Graham and Katherine Haskell.

The sixteen-year anniversary of the founding of camp and auxiliary will be observed on Tuesday night, August 2 in K.C. hall. All past officers of both organizations will be accorded special guest honors and the evening's program will end with the serving of birthday refreshments. Auxiliary members in charge of this will be Mesdames Della Cook, chairman, May Kellogg, Mabel Sands, Anna Fehr and Cora Frowiss.

Four guests were welcomed to the recent session, Mrs. Phillips of Fullerton, Mesdames Grace Stevens, Maude Granger and Alta Toby of Long Beach. Reports presented by the chaplain, Mrs. Maude Brown showed a record of 87 calls, 21 bouquets, food and clothing to the value of nearly nine dollars and over 10 dollars expended in child welfare work since the latest previous meeting.

A MANY-OCCASION SLENDERIZER PATTERN 4847
By ANNE ADAMS

It's the matron's turn for a cheery bit of flattery—in the shape of a "differently" new puffed sleeve afternoon dress! Anne Adams' Pattern 4847 has the most genuinely flattering lines that anyone could hope for. It is youthful in spirit—definitely not "large size" in mood or manner, though designed with that knowing fraction of extra width in hipline, armhole and sleeve that mature figures demand. Picture yourself wearing that elongated and belted bodice with its pretty gathers and neat revers! You'll prize the effect of height that only a very long tapered center panel can give. Both light and dark crepes are ideal—but choose very pliable, shape-holding fabrics. Sewing Instructor included.

Pattern 4847 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 31-2 yards 39 inch fabric.

Mother and Daughter
Are Hostesses at Birthday Party

Fortunate in sharing the same birthday date of July 19, Mrs. Fred Whitten and her little daughter Patricia Ann, celebrated the occasion very happily Tuesday at their home, 815 South Ross street.

Mrs. Whitten planned the affair as a garden party and applied a pink and blue color motif to decorations of the tables where birthday cake, ice cream and fruitade were served. Delphinium sprays were mingled with sweet peas in expression of the color scheme.

There were favors for each guest, but of even more interest was the interval when little Miss Patricia opened her generous collection of birthday gifts. There were additional gifts too, for her mother.

Guests of the mother and daughter celebrants included Mrs. Frank Osborne and her children, Davis and Norma; Mrs. Bert Winfield of Naples, and her children, Dorothy, Kenneth and Florence; Mrs. John Sutherland of Tustin, and daughter, Nan and Betty; Mrs. Ray Whitten and children, Margaret, Bobby and Dorothy; Patricia Ann, Reece of Los Angeles, Bobby and Catherine Don Crumley of Tustin, and Rose Ann Gowdy.

Little Mission Chapel
Is Scene of
Quiet Wedding Service

That air of serenity and peace that characterizes the quiet little chapel of San Juan Capistrano Mission, made it a charming spot in which Miss Ann Jacques and Leo Schmiedberg, two well known young people of this city, yesterday exchanged wedding vows.

The Rev. Father Arthur J. Hutchinson, resident pastor at the Mission, conducted the wedding service, for which the bride chose a simple but smartly tailored frock in deep blue. Her costume included slippers, gloves and other dress accessories in rich burgundy shades, completed with a corsage cluster of gardenias.

There were no attendants at the wedding, and guests were only the members of the intimate family circle. Mr. Schmiedberg's mother, Mrs. Katherine Schmiedberg, and his young daughter, Margaret Ann, and his bride's sisters, Mrs. Rose McCarthy with whom she has made her home at 815 West First street, and Mrs. J. H. Jessup.

The entire party lingered to enjoy a wedding breakfast in the Mission Village before Mr. and Mrs. Schmiedberg left for a northern honeymoon. They were to follow the Redwood highway and planned to go as far north as possible, probably into Canada before returning in two weeks' time, to the home which Mr. Schmiedberg has in readiness for his bride on North Parton street.

He will resume his position with United Automotive service. His bride attended Santa Ana schools and has been a member of the main floor staff at the Rankin Drygoods store.

New Member Welcomed
To Afternoon Club

Members of Mrs. H. F. Larkin's club enjoyed a pleasant afternoon yesterday at her home, 1225 South Broadway. Contrary to the club custom of serving refreshments last, Mrs. Larkin served dessert at the beginning of the meeting.

Gaiety was evident at the prettily appointed bridge tables and in the room decorations of deep red roses and carnations.

The first part of the business meeting was given over to discussing home problems under leadership of the hostess. During this time, also, the group welcomed a new member, Mrs. M. H. Hargroves.

Following the business meeting members enjoyed five hundred with a pretty range of singing to Mrs. T. F. Bernier for high score.

Sharing the hospitality of Mrs. Larkin were Mesdames W. C. Bond, E. W. Vardy, J. R. White, S. M. Kilgore, R. M. Hargroves, T. F. Bernier and E. P. Dunn.

If constipation has you bogged down so you feel tired, sunk, all played out—It's time you asked yourself some questions!

What have you had to eat lately? Just meat, bread, eggs, potatoes? It's no surprise you're constipated! The chances are you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and take a new lease on life! All-Bran is made by Kellogg, Battle Creek, Sold by every grocer.

CAN'T BEAT SLEEPER

Another election campaign finds County Assessor James Sleeper without an opponent for re-election. The politically minded, who may not think beyond the fact that no candidate cared to match political strength with the acknowledged mastery of Mr. Sleeper in the campaign arena, perhaps will miss the connection between his lack of opposition and another fact.

That fact is that Assessor Sleeper has just come through another assessment period with colors flying, his judgment of value and his equitable treatment of property owners once more demonstrated by the amazing result. Of approximately 70,000 assessments made by Sleeper, only 12 were questioned at all by taxpayers, and of those 12 only two were allowed trifling adjustments by the county board of equalization.

It is about as near a perfect job as any assessor could hope to achieve. Witnessing the flood of assessment protests in other counties one realizes more clearly what an assessor like Sleeper means to a county.

Orange county's assessor stands high among assessors of the state, who look to him frequently for guidance and advice in their work. It is no secret that the state board of equalization views Sleeper as an authority and that its policies reflect his methods and ideas in no small degree. He originated the method of assessing oil companies that has become the pattern for assessing mineral rights throughout the state.

He has collected more than $16,000,000 in personal property taxes for the county during his years in office.

A veteran on the job, Sleeper not only is an expert at his task, but has surrounded himself with experts. His deputies know their business. This year's assessment record was no accident. It is the rule, not the exception; has happened year after year.

The foregoing collection of facts should be informative to those who do not think beyond politics. Sure, Mr. Sleeper is a hard man to defeat in a political campaign. Why shouldn't he be? With such a sound underlying reason for his popularity he will keep on being hard to beat. He's hard to beat at his job.

SOME UNANSWERED QUESTIONS

Speaking at the Conference on Power at the Institute on Northwest Affairs in Portland, representatives of the National Resources Board and the Bonneville Administration pointed out that the government hydro-electric plants so far built on the Columbia River more than double all the existing developed electric resources in the Pacific Northwest. They then envisaged a gigantic super-power system, made up of the facilities of private, municipal and government plans, which would make possible the transmission of power tremendous distances from its source. This, in their opinion, would help decentralize industry, and would also stabilize the system's local factor in that the summer drop in urban demand would be balanced by the summer rise in irrigation demand.

That paints a pretty, theoretical picture, but there is great haziness surrounding the details. The Pacific Northwest already is adequately served by long-existing electric systems which are privately owned and publicly regulated. These systems have a wide margin of potential capacity over current demand. And while it is argued that future demand will easily absorb the new installed capacity it can't be proved. It is much more likely that for years to come, demand will be insufficient by far to absorb present production. And if that likelihood proves true, what then?

Would the government, once the super-system were established, be content to let its plants lie partially idle, and permit the facilities of the private utilities to serve the area? Or would the government insist on the private companies abandoning part or all of their facilities, as in the TVA area, in order to distribute power generated at Bonneville and Grand Coulee? If this were the case, what would happen to the private companies' investment in plants and lines which were no longer needed because of the government's tax-free, tax-subsidized, unregulated hydro plants?

These are some of the questions that eventually must be answered in the case of any government project in the power field, and it is a noteworthy fact that government spokesmen have as yet been unwilling or unable to answer them satisfactorily. In all fairness, it is only reasonable to say that the proponents of socialized federal power are likely to discover that there is a tremendous difference between the dream and the reality.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

BY RUSH HOLT
United States Senator From West Virginia

WASHINGTON, July 21.—I am listed as a critic of the administration. I am the only Democrat who has had all of his patronage taken away from him. I am not consulted by the inner circle or the purging squad. I am happier than many of the select who have jobs and more jobs because I can vote independently for the things I believe to be for the general welfare.

I came to the United States Senate in 1935 believing that those in Washington who proclaimed their devotion to the people were actually trying to do something for the downtrodden, the so-called under third. It was a sad disillusionment to find that the political angle was of more importance than improving the lot of those unfortunate.

I have always been proud to call myself a liberal. To many I have been considered a radical. I looked to the New Deal as a liberal program. To find the politicians in control was not a happy conclusion.

One who is not free from the patronage pressure can realize how much happier he is without the problem. I hear a chorus of "sour grapes." If it be "sour grapes," indeed some of the unhappy should try it. I can say that no man who involves himself in patronage tangles can be as happy as the one without these difficulties.

Many who have accepted positions from a department are not going to do anything that would make the personnel director or the head of that department persona grata. I do not mean that they will do anything wrong to protect the jobs given but they are going to avoid an act that might be considered hostile. It is just as easy, much easier to "go along."

Furthermore, there is a local angle to the patronage problem. Some feel that they must have jobs to give their deserving political workers back in the state. If they do not, the story will go the rounds that they do not have power or influence in Washington and that they should be replaced by others who could get the jobs. This creates a feeling that it is better to go along. We all would like to see our friends employed. That is why patronage is such an important issue with members of congress or anyone interested in the conduct of government.

I was talking to an appointee of a member of the senate who said: "My senator would like to have voted with your group today but you know he is a candidate and just felt that he shouldn't. You know he couldn't be of any service if he wasn't re-elected." Such is the story!

The outstanding members of the senate are the men who represent ideas and ideals. That has been the case in the past. By differences of opinion, this country has profited. We got different viewpoints because the senators could express themselves without thinking that the speech would mean the loss of a project, a federal grant or some other favor to the state.

They could talk without having the people of their state punished for an expression. Congress will not do its best work under fear of purges and punishment.

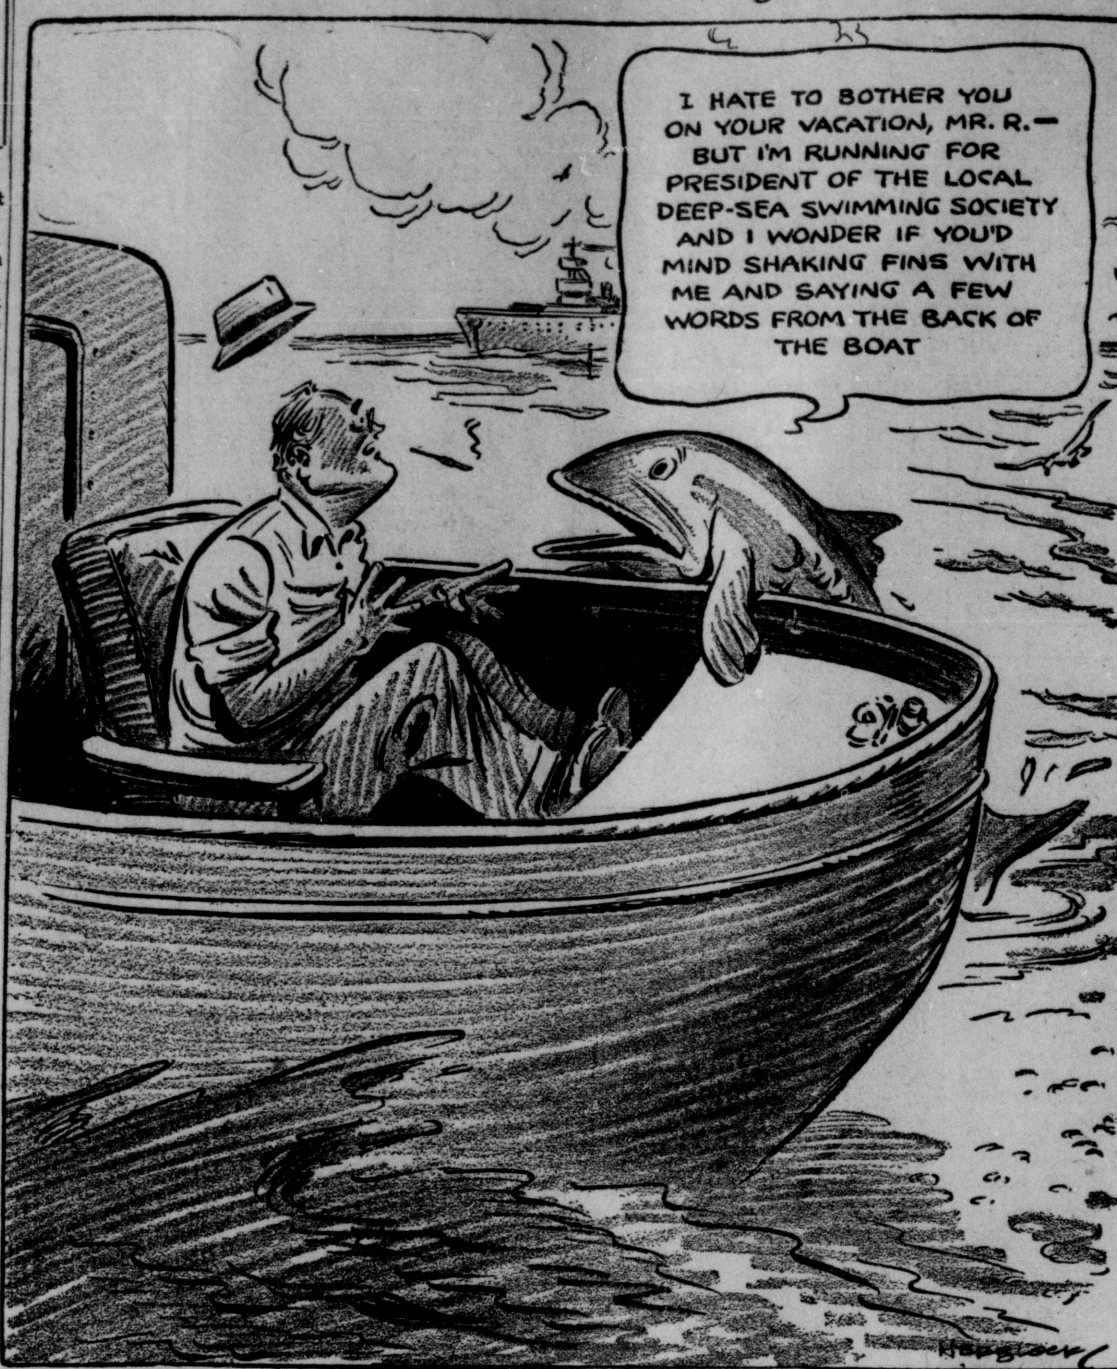

Another incident was interesting. One senator would like to vote: "I would like to amend the bill by changing a certain section." The other replied: "That change would help the bill but if I accepted that amendment, I would be annihilated by Lewis (speaking of John L.) at the next election." The amendment was not in the bill. I wonder whether the senator is secure in his own self-respect as he thinks he is with the chance of re-election.

I hear members and others say, "Rush, you have to play politics. If you don't, you won't stay here long." I have said to them: "Was I wrong? Did I misrepresent anything?" invariably the answer has been, "Of course not but you just can't do those things." Why?

I believe in the American people. I know that the people will rise up to sweep out those who have been politicians, not men. My view may be what some call "too idealistic." It may be political. However, it is a much happier position than of those who play politics at the expense of their own conscientious belief.

I have had patronage, a little, very little. I have been with the majority. I am not deprived of my patronage. I am many times happier because I regard my seat in the senate as an opportunity to vote for the best interests of my constituents without fear of being punished.

Clearing House

Fellow citizens: Apropos of my comparison of the two recent flights across the Atlantic, the question was asked "what does Corrigan's trip prove?" and the answer can be made in a few words. It shows that the Auro surrounding aerial navigation is just another of those myths which a young fellow with intestinal stamina, even though not loaded with this world's goods, has exploded. This is true of any vocation which the rank and file does not understand until it is proven that there is nothing deeply dark and mysterious about making the wheels go. Furthermore, as to being forbidden making such a trip, where would the 1938 exploration have wound up had Columbus not been allowed to set forth on his voyage. Which further proves that young America (thanks to Elsie Robinson) is taking a hand in affairs and one of these days will rise up and "bat down the ears of a bunch of swivel chair bureaucrats to a new low."

HARRY HARVEY.

Fellow Citizens

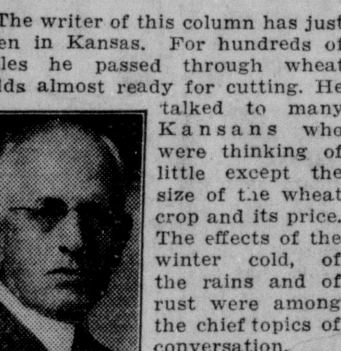

Anyone who is not too indifferent or mentally lazy can acquire quite a fund of economic knowledge by reading the "Comforts of Life" and articles published in the Register. I was deeply interested in reading Mr. Betts' piece in the Clearing House, June 30. I also read an article published in the Register some time ago by Glenn Frank. Mr. Frank does not believe in the old economic traditions nor in the infallibility of the old order. Mr. Frank is not in complete agreement with the Washington Administration, neither is he a die-hard reactionary. Please allow me to quote Mr. Frank. "I have just talked with a die-hard conservative whose reaction is typical of many uncritical Americans just now." Mr. Frank quotes the die-hard conservative as saying: "If we could only call a halt on all this government interference, pull the government out of everything but the protective police role the fathers gave it, get back to John Stuart Mill, our troubles would soon right themselves." Glenn Frank then goes on to say: "It appears that recently I reread the writings of John Stuart Mill. Mill by no means sought to limit government to the simple role of policeman. Mill argued specifically for government intervention in the following cases: 'The government should intervene to protect children and others in like position of helplessness against abuse of persons exercising power over them.' 'The government should intervene in the regulation of hours of labor.' 'The government should intervene to care for the poor.' 'The government should intervene to undertake things in the general interest where private agencies have failed.' Mr. Frank believes Mill leaves government enormous leeway for meeting new situations as they arise. Mr. Frank continues: 'The present hour does not call for a hard and fast advocacy of any anarchic individualism.'"

We are confronted with new situations that did not exist a decade or two ago. Unemployment, technological efficiency, world economic nationalism, every nation trying to support itself and importing as little as possible, were not apparent until a few years ago. A writer in the Saturday Evening Post says: "American industry has grown to a point where it must have greater foreign markets or else stop growing."

Fellow citizens: The following is an open letter to Herbert Hoover: According to an article published in the Liberty on July 16th, under the heading: "Herbert Hoover tells WHAT AMERICA MUST DO NEXT," you are reported as having said: "The wise thing for us to do is also the next thing. That is to stop the excesses of the New Deal."

YOU AND YOUR Nation's Affairs

HARD TO CONTROL WHEAT
By ERNEST MINOR PATTERSON
President, American Academy of Political and Social Science

The writer of this column has just been in Kansas. For hundreds of miles he passed through wheat fields almost ready for cutting. He talked to many Kansans who were thinking of little except the size of the wheat crop and its price. The effects of the winter cold, of the rains and of rust were among the chief topics of conversation.

Yet this comes after several years of attempting to "control" agriculture. It was five years ago that the Agricultural Adjustment Act was passed. For five years the A. A. A. has endeavored to help the farmer. Perhaps he is better off than he would have been had no help been given. Perhaps what the country has paid out to assist him has been money well spent. Such matters are often hard to determine. But clearly his troubles are not yet over.

The latest estimates of the 1938 wheat crop put the yield at over 1,000,000,000 bushels, which is the highest in our history. These estimates will be adjusted as the weeks pass and may be lowered, but any reduction will be due to "acts of God" and not to acts of government. What is wrong?

It is important not to be glib in our reply. First to be remembered is that the wheat farmer is in a difficult situation. The demand for his product is "inelastic." If there is a small supply of wheat and the price rises, demand is reduced only a little and the price advance is not checked. Most of us curtail our consumption of wheat products very slightly, if at all, because of an increase in price. Accordingly the farmer prospers and often ex-

ing. That is my contention. We know how to produce. We now have a 400 million bushel wheat surplus, a cotton surplus, a corn surplus. Believers in the old order and laissez faire, what are you going to do with those surpluses? We know how to produce, but before we can put everybody to work, we have got to sell what we produce. Glutting the market with a few staple commodities like corn, wheat, and cotton affects the purchasing power of millions of people. Consequently it hurts all of us. As I see it, if we should operate our industries at full capacity now as we did during the world war we would have a world war higher than Baldy. One industry is operating at full capacity, the airplane industry. There is a great European demand for our airplanes. If we had that kind of demand in all our industries this depression would become history like our other depressions.

MRS. A. BRADEN.

pands his commitments unwisely. If crops are large and prices decline, there is only a slight increase in demand to cushion the fall and the slump may be extreme.

It is to the credit of your government officials that they have seen this clearly. Since demand does not act as a steady influence in the market, supply must be controlled if help is to be given. Hence there have been efforts to reduce acreage, grant bonuses, etc. But after several years we may have the largest wheat crop in history.

Another point to be noted is that much of the criticism against crop restriction is quite unfair. Other producers restrict their output when they fear a price decline. Manufacturers of automobiles curtailed output by about 80 per cent just after 1929 and reduced prices by only some 20 per cent. During this same period farm output fell only 20 per cent while prices declined about 80 per cent. The wheat growers cannot well be blamed for wanting to use the same methods that are used by others from whom they must buy.

Nevertheless, there is a difference that is vital. Manufacturers can control output. In some cases there are only a few large producers involved, as is true of automobile manufacturing. In any case they can adjust their plans so precisely that they will turn out the exact number of cars they desire. But there are hundreds of thousands of farmers in many counties. Unanimity of action is difficult, impossible to secure. Even if it can be attained and acreage rigidly determined, the weather may upset all calculations about output.

This is unpleasant for the farmers. Unfortunately it is true. As yet we have not found a satisfactory device for "controlling" agriculture. (Address questions to the author, care of this newspaper.)

have both failed. And I agree with him. But I do not hesitate to call his attention to the fact that he nor any other man, regardless of party affiliations and platform, can succeed under the same handicap. I believe that you and Mr. Roosevelt are the two most White House men in many years. But I feel that under the present "set-up" we can accomplish nothing but the "crucifixion" of our best men as presidents. This lack of cooperation reminds me of Franklin's snake, which was cut into three pieces, and bore the inscription: "Unite or die."

I believe that President Roosevelt is justified in asking us to send more of his friends to congress. If we respond to that appeal, and he then fails, the responsibility is on his shoulders. But if we withhold that cooperation, and he fails, the responsibility is ours.

My plea for cooperation is not made for President Roosevelt alone, but for all future presidents, regardless of their party affiliations.

General Hugh S. JOHNSON SAYS

BETHANY BEACH, Delaware.

Apart from Mr. Roosevelt's personal popularity, what is the strength of the Third New Deal? Plainly it is not, as in the older parties, a majority in a difference in political thinking that fairly evenly divides all classes. The bulk of the higher and middle-income classes are against it, regardless of location or previous allegiance. The South remains traditionally Democratic but upon almost none of the reasons that made it so in the beginning. In other parts of the country New Deal strength resides in four groups—agriculture, organized labor, people on relief and the Negro race almost as a unit.

These are pressure groups. All except the Negroes are more or less organized and subsidized as a direct result of Third New Deal policies. This is a very formidable array. In a close fight the Negro vote alone can decide the issue in the Northern states that are of greatest weight in a national election.

As for organized labor or organized agriculture, their strength is not merely their number of individuals. It is the threat that resides in the act of their organization. Few politicians dare their formal disapproval or active opposition. They get what they want because they can act as a unit and are equipped to make themselves both heard and felt.

In addition to that, as far as agriculture is concerned there is a threat through its whole structure an additional organizational pattern of the government itself. Mr. Henry Wallace sits at the center of a most efficient national structure of county agents and committees—and dishes out the dough. Somewhat similarly, in WPA, Mr. Hopkins has a nationwide dough-and-job-dishing machine of tremendous political potency.

This adds an entirely new element to political alignment. When issues are just ideas and policies, elections go by emotion or traditional loyalty. Only a few people really understand what the true difference of opinion is. But anybody can understand $7.50 or a wheat subsidy or a WPA job. Powerful pressure organizations plus plentiful pay—it is likely to prove an almost unbeatable combination, if the present system continues without any more active and intelligent opposition than it has had for six years.

It is not easy to oppose. Farm and unemployment relief are an absolute necessity. But so is restoration of a somewhat normal employment and business activity. Toward that, after six years, we have seen almost no progress. Every group is organized and active for its own needs—except the largest group of all—the great middle class—professional men, small businessmen, white-collar workers and the overwhelming majority of workers who, for one reason or another, are not either the CIO or A. F. of L.

Perhaps they can't be organized. Their community of interest may not be clear enough. To them there could never be given any such direct monetary hand-outs as those which bind the other groups so closely together. Furthermore, they ought not to be organized against the meritorious claims of the other groups but only for their own protection. In short, if they could be brought together they would look more like a political party than like one of the other powerful groups.

It seems to be a pretty hopeless case and suggests a profound change in the old two-party political system. There really aren't two parties anymore. There is the wreckage of the old Republican party on the one hand and on the other a collection of highly organized pressure groups cutting across all party lines and bound together by no particular common purpose or principle among the groups, but only because they are the survivors of the wreckage.

It means to take as much money as possible for individuals of each group separately from the public purse.

Seamen who prove their efficiency will be able to count on steady employment, and likewise the ship owners and masters will be able to make long-term contracts with those men who have proved their worth. The seamen's unions will benefit by having definite information as to their members who have steady jobs, and will be able to concentrate their efforts on finding places for those on the unemployment list, or give them definite information as to whether to look for other fields.

The change should gain its greatest support from the standpoint of safety and economic operation. The seaman on steady employment will have greater peace of mind by the withdrawal of the fear of no work at the end of the voyage. He will be able to give greater attention to his duties, and in so doing over a period of several voyages of the same vessel will learn its peculiarities which will increase operating efficiency and safety. While the new regulation does not require the shipmaster to ship his crew for a long term, nor does it, on the other hand, require a seaman to sign continuous articles, it offers the opportunity to both.—Washington Evening Star.

CAUSE OF DOLLAR WAGES

This column yesterday discussed the contention of a contributor that if it were not for labor unions and labor laws wages in six months would be a dollar a day for common and two dollars for skilled labor.

The writer believes that contributors like this man, frankly expressing his opinion in the column of a newspaper, are performing a real service to their fellow men. It brings one of the most important human relations to the attention of the public. And if the public does not come to the proper beliefs as to what causes wages to be raised they will establish customs and laws that will make it impossible to have real high wages for labor.

In the first place the hourly wage a worker receives is not important in itself. The hourly money wages in dollars will depend almost entirely on what we use for money and how we define and regulate the substitutes we use as mediums of exchange.

We can have the workers receive a dollar a day or a thousand dollars a day just as we like if we change the value of the dollar enough by law.

The real important part of wages, however, is as to how much one hour of a unit of labor will receive and at the same time have all the employment it wants. Whether union and labor laws will enable every worker (not some few workers) to permanently and constantly receive more of the comforts of life for a given unit of human labor and at the same time have plenty of work is the question. To get $10 an hour and only have 100 hours a year is not helping labor. It is only hurting labor.

The contributor evidently sincerely believes that union labor and labor laws cause improved wage conditions. This column believes that instead of improving the lot of those workers as a whole it lowers their wages.

Now those who contend that wages can be artificially raised will, of course, have to admit that in the long run the workers, as a whole, can only receive what they produce; that if some workers receive more than they produce other workers, past or present, must of necessity receive less than they produce.

If it be true then anything that retards the total amount that all workers can produce must of necessity reduce the total wages that all workers can receive.

Now if there are any two things in the world that retard production they are: (1)—Whatever prevents workers from learning to do, and doing, what society wants done; (2)—the other thing is that which retards production in the retarding of the accumulation of more efficient tools, prolific vegetation and domestic animals. Labor unions and labor laws do exactly these two things.

The only possible way labor unions have ever helped any group of workers in their yearly wages is by limiting those who may learn or work at the trade. This, of course, prevents a greater production because the price of the finished product is, of necessity, kept up to pay these monopolistic wages, and so the consumption is kept down.

A Concrete Example

I am told that the engineer on the railroad from New York to Washington gets $35 for a round trip that takes eight hours. The paying of artificial wages of this kind is added to the freight rates so that every other worker that consumes anything that is shipped, or produced by things that have been shipped, is obliged to pay more than he would if railroad men would work on a competitive basis. While this is happening people are obliged to do without oranges and the myriad of other things they would like to have, if they could be delivered cheaper, because these workers get wages so high that prices prevent other workers from trading what they produce for oranges and things they want and need.

Again labor unions and labor laws prevent the rapid adjustment of wages and the rapid replacing of help so that all men can be fully employed.

The engineer referred to above is permitted to make only 10 runs a month. Public opinion demands that he share these artificial wages with other workers. This lowers production and thus lowers the amount of total wages that can be received.

This column repeatedly has pointed out how the accumulation of capital increases production, so it will not be necessary to repeat it.

There is, of course, no scientific way of answering the question as to whether unions and labor laws raise or lower wages. History, ethics and economics are not exact sciences. The clock cannot be turned back and have identical conditions. It can only be determined by reason and logic. So discussions on the subject are not important.

Address your questions to the writer, in care of this newspaper.

PERMANENT SHIP CREWS

The bureau of marine inspection and navigation of the department of commerce has just made effective a new rule which is expected to produce far-reaching results in stabilizing ship employment and reduction of some of the hazards to life and property at sea due to untrained personnel. The action wipes out a custom of more than 50 years whereby seamen are shipped for only one voyage. The shipmasters now will be permitted to ship members of their crews for long periods of time, regardless of the number of voyages or turn-arounds they make.

Seamen who prove their efficiency will be able to count on steady employment, and likewise the ship owners and masters will be able to make long-term contracts with those men who have proved their worth. The seamen's unions will benefit by having definite information as to their members who have steady jobs, and will be able to concentrate their efforts on finding places for those on the unemployment list, or give them definite information as to whether to look for other fields.

The change should gain its greatest support from the standpoint of safety and economic operation.
